SPEEDY PEACE PLAN DRAFTED IN FORD TIEUP

SETTLEMENT BASIS REACHED IN CIO WALKOUT

Detroit, April 2 (AP)—Swift mediation efforts in the strike paralyzing the Ford Motor company's great River Rouge plant brought a "plan for settlement" tonight soon after state police were stationed in the plant area.

Federal mediator James F. Dewey, two hours after stepping out of a plane on a hurried flight here, announced the "plan." It was attained in a 90-minute conference with Gov. Murray D. Van Wagoner and CIO officials.

Meanwhile state troopers patrolled the suburban Dearborn district, a scene of intermittent violence earlier in the day, but with great numbers of the thousands of pickets and sympathizers withdrawn, there was no indication of further trouble.

Troopers Called

Dewey's announcement, on which he did not elaborate, climaxed rapidly developing events including a Ford company request for President Roosevelt to aid in stopping "terroristic mass picketing" and the governor's order for troopers.

The strike was called by the United Automobile Workers (CIO) shortly after midnight. At 8:05 o'clock tonight Dewey, leaving the conference room [illegible] downtown Detroit hotel, made his announcement to newspaper men.

"A plan has been evolved for settlement," he said.

Although Dewey declined to say more, his statement was interpreted to mean that the UAW-CIO leaders had agreed with him on a definite program.

Company Group Arrives

Conferees had included August Scholle, state director of the CIO, and Walter Reuther, member of the international executive board of the UAW-CIO.

At 9:15 p. m. a committee of five representing the Ford company entered the hotel suite of governor Van Wagoner for what a representative of the governor said was "mediation efforts to settle the strike."

The Ford group was headed by Harry Mack, a company official. Two others were identified as Elmer Hogan and James Brady, members of the Ford personnel department.

About midnight this conference ceased, and Dewey, meeting with waiting reporters, announced it would be resumed at 11 a. m. tomorrow.

Dewey, who commented "we had a very friendly conference," said his session with the Ford

Stern Notes Sent U.S. On Seizure Of Vessels

BY J. C. STARK

Washington, April 2, (AP)—New and stronger protests were lodged by Germany and Italy today over the seizure of axis ships and crews while the United States prepared replies formally rejecting earlier notes.

The new axis notes, said to be couched in stronger language than those delivered Monday, took special exception to the action of authorities in imprisoning members of the crews.

The German embassy made public its first note, demanding release of two Nazi ships and their crews and removal of the American flag said to have been hoisted on one of them. It called the seizure a "clear violation" of treaty rights and said it had "no legal basis in international law."

The Italian embassy still guarded the contents of its notes and the state department declined to disclose details of any of them.

The coast guard, acting about the time the second axis notes were delivered, ordered removal of the American flag from any of the 69 ships—German, Italian or Danish—on which it was hoisted after the vessels were taken into "protective custody" last week-end on grounds of actual or prospective sabotage.

The Italian and German ships will fly no flags while they are in custody, the coast guard ordered, but Danish ships on which skeleton crews are being permitted to remain may fly the Danish flag when Danish officers are aboard.

Although no explanation was given for the orders, officials said the ships still belong to their foreign owners pending any forfeiture proceedings that may be taken later.

There was every indication the new axis protests would only delay rather than change the American answers rejecting them entirely.

Crewmen Indicted

Amid these developments in the capital, a federal grand jury at Boston indicted Captain Ernst R. Heitzmann, four officers and five members of the crew of the German tanker Pauline Friedrich on charges of sabotage.

The men, held at the Boston immigration station since they were taken off their vessel during the widespread week-end seizures of axis merchantmen, will be placed in custody of the United States marshal pending their arraignment, United States Attorney Edmund J. Brandon said.

Conviction of the sabotage charge carries a maximum penalty of a $10,000 fine, 20 years in prison or both.

The indictments came swiftly after Attorney General Robert H. Jackson yesterday ordered prosecution of German and Italian seamen who damaged or attempted to damage their ships.

STEPS TO HELP BRITISH MAPPED

Roosevelt Confers With Enlarged Cabinet and Military Group

BY D. HAROLD OLIVER

Washington, April 2 (AP)—New steps in the ever-expanding defense and British aid programs apparently were in the making today as President Roosevelt met with an enlarged cabinet and military group after discussing, at a previous conference, ways of meeting British requests for new ship tonnage.

With details kept strictly secret, the chief executive conferred late in the day with what has become known as his "lend-lease" cabinet council and with Harry L. Hopkins, Attorney General Jackson and the heads of the three armed services.

The original White House announcement listed only Secretaries Hull, Stimson, Knox, and Morgenthau, and Hopkins, unofficial coordinator, as participants in what press secretary Stephen Early described as a checkup on all angles of the defense program.

The conference assumed greater importance later when Jackson was added to the conferees, along with General George C. Marshall, army chief of staff; Admiral Harold R. Stark, chief of naval operations, and Major General Thomas Holcomb, commandant of marines.

Senate Lets House Take 10-Day Recess

Washington, April 2. (AP)—The senate agreed today to let the house take a 10-day vacation starting tomorrow and ending April 14.

Majority Leader Barkley (D-Ky.) obtained senate approval of the plan after explaining that the constitution required that either the senate or house must get approval of the other for any adjournment while the other remained in session.

As for an Easter vacation for senators, he said the senate had numerous matters requiring that they stay on the job.

New Bill Compels All Motorists To Carry Insurance

Lansing, April 2 (AP)—A bill introduced in the senate today would declare it unlawful to drive an automobile in Michigan that was not protected by public liability insurance or bond.

The measure, introduced by Senator Charles S. Blondy, Democrat, Flint, carried no exemption for tourists. It would impose misdemeanor penalties on violators.

Joint resolutions introduced by Senator Charles C. Diggs, Democrat, Detroit, propose constitutional amendments to provide a salary increase for legislators and annual sessions of the legislature. Pay would be fixed at $10 a day for six months and $3 a day for the balance of the two-year term. Legislators now receive a flat $3 a day.

A bill introduced in the house of representatives would permit citizens to form "mosquito abatement districts," and finance the control of the pests by a special assessment up to one half mill per dollar of assessed valuation.

FASCIST ARMY TAKES FLIGHT FROM ERITREA

(By The Associated Press)

Cairo, Egypt, April 2—Between 30,000 and 40,000 Italian soldiers, the beaten remnants of the Fascist army in Eritrea, are fleeing southward toward Addis Ababa, Ethiopian capital, British military sources said tonight.

The only major point left under the Italian flag in Italy's oldest colony is Massaua, Red sea port, and that city was described as on the brink of capitulation.

The Fascists reported leaving Eritrea, plus approximately 60,000 other Italian troops virtually isolated in Ethiopia, are all the Italian troops left to fight in East Africa.

Defenders Isolated

Amid intimations the white flag of Fascist surrender might soon float over all Eritrea, the British army and navy teamed up to put the squeeze on those soldiers.

The navy announced sinking of an Italian destroyer and capture of a German merchantman in the Red sea at Massaua, and sinking of an Italian submarine and a tanker in the Mediterranean.

Army sources pictured 60,000 Italians as virtually isolated in the wilds of Ethiopia and another 40,000 hemmed in between the Eritrean mountains and the British-dominated Red sea.

In the Libyan desert of North Africa British and German advance units sparred inconclusively.

Hastening to clean up the remainder of East Africa before the rains come, the British announced at Khartoum, Anglo-Egyptian Sudan, that their advance on Asmara, the Eritrean capital, was met Tuesday by Italian emmisaries bearing a white flag.

Fort Is Silent

The Italians said resistance had ceased and asked that Asmara be considered an open town, the communique said, adding:

"It is not known yet whether the order to cease fire refers only to Asmara or to the whole of Eritrea."

Thus, without opposition from the so-called "impregnable" Fort Baldissera, the British took over a city of nearly 100,000 population, half Italians.

The Fascist troops who withdrew there and the survivors of the bitter battle of Cheren—40,000 in all—were said to have fled south and southeast.

A communique here said it was believed the Italians still held Massaua, 75 miles by rail northeast of Asmara, but the weakness of their position was indicated by the British admiralty.

It announced an Italian destroyer of the 1,526-ton Pantera class was sunk by naval aircraft of the East Indies command as it fled from Massaua, and that near the same port the British destroyer Kandahar intercepted the 4,188-ton German freighter Bertram Rickmers.

Former Purchasing Agent Of Michigan Admits Mail Fraud

Detroit, April 2 (AP)—A former state purchasing agent, indicted with two others last November on charges of mail fraud by a special federal grand jury investigating Michigan governmental affairs, pleaded guilty at the opening of his trial today.

The defendant, Wellington E. Niles, was accused with Henry L. Galster, Petoskey businessman, and Charles T. Trombley, Bay City clothing broker, of faking, altering and manipulating state purchasing department bids.

Galster yesterday entered a plea of nolo contendere, subjecting him to the same penalties as if he had pleaded guilty. His action left the government with only one defendant, Thombley, to stand trial and a jury of nine women and three men was selected to hear the case.

CAMPS ORDERED CLOSED

Lansing, April 2. (AP)—George A. Young, administrative officer of the Civilian Conservation Corps camps in Michigan, said today Camp Mackinac in the Upper Peninsula and Camp Au Sable in the lower peninsula would be closed July 1 in compliance with a federal government order.

Axis Tells Japan What To Do When U. S. Mixes In War

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Rome, April 2.—Japanese Foreign Minister Yosuke Matsuoka has agreed with Premier Mussolini and Adolf Hitler on a joint plan of action against the United States in the event of American involvement—declared or undeclared—in hostilities against the axis powers, authoritative Italians indicated today.

The Japanese statesman said goodby to Premier Mussolini before returning tomorrow to Berlin for further conferences with Hitler.

Talks With Pope

He also talked today with Pope Pius XII at a 65-minute interview at the Vatican, one of the longest any statesman has ever had with the pontiff. Those in a position to know said they surveyed the whole world situation.

Diplomatic observers ruled out any possibility of a Japanese attempt at mediation between Britain and the European axis powers, taking as their cue Matsuoka's declaration of confidence in victory for Japan and its allies in Europe, Africa and Asia.

On the other hand, foreign observers still were skeptical as to how far Matsuoka had pledged his country's direct aid in the war effort of Italy and Germany.

Newspaper Gives Hint

The strongest suggestion of Japanese-Italian-German joint action against the United States should American aid to Britain involve conflict with the axis came from Virginio Gayda, authoritative Fascist editor, who declared in Il Giornale D'Italia:

"Every new real act of belligerency by third powers, even without a declaration, will find the tripartite pact functioning with all its formidable means on and over the vast world scene on which it is capable of extending its influence."

An anticipated talk between Mussolini and Matsuoka at Palazzo Venezia late this afternoon did not take place, authoritative sources indicating a long after-lunch chat was substituted. Ceremonies in honor of the Japanese visitor were concluded with a gymnastic drill of Fascist youth this afternoon and a dinner tonight at the Japanese embassy, followed by a reception.

NAVIGATION HAS EARLY OPENING

Cutter Tahoma Carries Lighthouse Tenders to Their Stations

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., April 2 (AP)—Early opening of the navigation season on the upper Great Lakes was forecast today as ice breakers attempted to open channels through heavily-wind-rowed ice.

The coast guard cutter Escanaba, which passed through the locks here yesterday, steamed toward Bay Mills, plowing through a field of windrowed ice in an effort to reach Whitefish bay. Following in its wake was the ice breaker Sainte Marie.

Navigation through the south channel of the Straits of Mackinac opened today when two Bradley Transportation company freighters, loaded with limestone, picked their way through ice fields.

The earliest date for upper lake navigation in recent years was recorded at Manistique when the Inland Steel company freighter N. F. Leopold cleared port yesterday with 10,000 tons of limestone for Indiana Harbor.

The coast guard cutter Tahoma, which opened the port of Cheboygan, took lighthouse tenders in the Cheboygan area to their stations today so beacons could be turned on tonight, a week earlier than usual.

Ice in the upper end of Saginaw bay between Lookout Point and Point Au Gres was reported to be breaking up, but Bay City shippers, hampered by 20 inches of ice in the harbor, expect a late start this season.

Seven boats, including six of the Cleveland Cliffs Iron company, passed off Port Huron today on their way north through Lake Huron.

GASOLINE PRICE UP

Detroit, April 2 (AP)—The Standard Oil Co. of Indiana today announced a half-cent a gallon increase in the price of gasoline in Michigan and nine other midwestern states. The boost, effective immediately, applies to the company's three grades of gasoline.

GUNFIRE KILLS FOUR AT MINE IN HARLAN, KY.

ARMISTICE CALLED; MURDER CHARGES ARE FILED

(By The Associated Press)

Harlan, Ky., April 2 (AP)—A burst of gunfire killed four men and wounded five others today at the Crummies Creek Coal company commissary as union pickets roamed the bituminous coal fields of Harlan county.

A few hours later Robert Hodge, secretary-treasurer of the Harlan district, United Mine Workers of America Union (CIO), said Harlan coal operators and union officials had agreed to a 24-hour armistice.

No Work, No Pickets

Hodge said he had been notified from New York by W. J. Cunningham and Charles Guthrie, representing the Harlan coal operators, and William Turnblazer and Jack O'Lear, union officials, that no mines would attempt to operate and no pickets would be placed.

The four are in New York aiding in negotiating a new work contract for the area.

The agreement is effective immediately, Hodge said, adding that "the union would give the operators 24 hours to show their good faith in the pact."

Hodge charged the men killed and wounded whom he identified as union miners, were "fired on by a machine gun * * *" and that the first shots "were fired by company men."

L. P. Johnson, general manager of the coal company, said the gunplay started when "men with '45s came into the store and started trouble."

Children Off Streets

At Frankfort, the state capitol, Gov. Keen Johnson said "the violence" at Harlan was "a disgrace" and that "it ought to stop." He declined comment on any steps he might have in mind to control the situation.

School children were warned to stay off Harlan streets.

The men killed in the shooting were identified as Charles Ruth and Ed Tye, negro, Black Mountain, and Oscar Goodin and Virgil Hampton, both of Lynch.

Late today County Judge C. E. Ball signed warrants charging seven members of the coal company with murder. Bonds were set at $5,000 each.

SOME PROGRESS MADE

New York, April 3 (Thursday) (AP)—Twenty-four hours after a federal conciliator predicted that within 48 hours an "equitable agreement" would be reached in the bituminous coal dispute and work stoppage, the negotiators still were in conference.

They recessed at 12:15 a. m. until 11 a. m., without comment further than a statement saying "some progress" had been made and that the conferees were "conscientiously trying to come to an agreement."

The 48-hour period passed the halfway mark at Wednesday midnight as representatives of the United Mine Workers of America (CIO) and operators of the Appalachian area remained closeted.

They had been conferring since 4 p. m. except for a 90-minute dinner recess.

John L. Lewis, president of the union, yesterday declared he would not submit to federal mediation of the dispute and a spokesman for the operators agreed with U. S. Conciliator John R. Steelman's earlier prediction that an agreement soon would be reached and the mines opened.

DETROIT GRAFT STORY RETOLD

Payoff Man Claims He Gave Prosecutor Over $100,000

Detroit, April 2. (AP)—Pale and trembling, and speaking in a barely audible voice, Harry Colburn testified today he had paid former Wayne County Prosecutor Duncan C. McCrea more than $100,000 in tribute exacted from gamblers and brothel keepers.

The former chief investigator for the ousted prosecutor, a co-defendant with McCrea in the gambling-graft conspiracy case until he pleaded guilty Monday, was asked by Special Prosecutor Chester P. O'Hara who paid the money.

"I did," replied Colburn, fidgeting in the witness chair and staring straight ahead with hands clasped in his lap.

Colburn told the circuit court jury hearing the case before Circuit Judge Earl C. Pugsley that the money was collected by Sam Block, confessed graft collector, and split three ways.

"Block kept 10 per cent of the gross as commission, I kept 33 1-3 per cent of what was left, and McCrea took the remainder," he said.

Later, asked to give his opinion of his one-time subordinate's testimony, McCrea commented:

"I think the man is mentally and physically sick * * *. I did not get any money from Colburn and I would not have taken it if he had given it to me."

HOUSE CHECKS DEFENSE DELAY

Labor Disputes Blamed On Communists and Plain "Anarchy"

Washington, April 2. (AP)—Fresh demands for anti-strike laws were made in both branches of congress today while the house, after hearing Rep. Smith (D-Va.) exclaim that "Red insurrection and rebellion prevail," directed two committees to investigate the whole defense program.

The house adopted a resolution by Chairman Vinson (D-Ga.) of the naval committee directing his group and the military committee, headed by Rep. May (D-Ky.), to make separate inquiries and file reports. Vinson promptly promised his committee would look into the strikes and Smith declared "this house and the American people are going to expect * * * the facts."

The resolution was approved on a roll-call vote of 344 to 1. The lone dissenter was Rep. Marcantonio (AL-N.Y.) who said the purpose was to "constitute two great committees into strike-breaking committee." Marcantonio has found himself a minority of one also on some defense bills.

"What do we find at the Ford factory?" asked Smith. "We find the old technique of the sitdown strike. What is the sitdown strike? Call it what you will, it is anarchy."

There were demands in congress for a "firmer" stand by the president following his press conference observations yesterday that the mediation board was getting along all right and that existing machinery would be given a fair trial before anything else was done.

CHANCES SLIM TO AVOID WAR IN YUGOSLAVIA

TALKS WITH ITALY FAIL TO SMOOTH OUT MATTERS

Belgrade, April 3 (Thursday), (AP)—Formidable concentrations of German motorized blitzkrieg units were reported in diplomatic messages early today to be stationed in Rumania just across the frontier from the Yugoslav town of Belacrkva.

That border point is less than 50 miles from Belgrade and is near the Danube river.

The report caused alarm in the capital because it would be one of the logical points from which the Germans might launch an attack on Belgrade itself.

Appeasement Rejected

Other diplomatic dispatches said fast German divisions were massing near Szeged, in southern Hungary across from Yugoslavia.

Although a new Serb-Croat understanding was reported to have been reached, consolidating the Yugoslavian internal situation, the chances of war were seen by diplomats as greater than ever.

This was notwithstaning attempts of the Italians to stave it off by what the diplomats called feeble maneuvering.

The Italians were said to be attempting to get Premier General Dusan Simovic to go to Rome and seek Premier Mussolini's "aid" toward appeasing Adolf Hitler.

This, said circles close to the government, Simovic refuses to do.

Albanian Push Feared

The Italian desire to stave off war here was seen by some diplomats as prompted by Fascist fear that the Yugoslavs would invade northern Albania immediately, and with the Greeks sweep Mussolini's forces into the Adriatic.

That the Yugoslavs already have taken defense measures in the Adriatic was revealed when secretly-sown Yugoslav mines sank two Yugoslav passenger liners in the Adriatic as the ships sped toward home ports in fear of war with the axis.

The vessels were the 1,293-ton Karadjordje and the 1,726-ton Prestolonaslednik Petar. They went down in the Bay of Obrovac, 23 miles east and north of the Italian city of Zara, which is on the Dalmatian shore. All crewmen were saved.

The mining apparently had been carried out within the week.

For the second time in 24 hours the Berlin press and radio campaigns, reminiscent of those launched by Germany before the attack on Poland which began the war, brought a brief and firm government denial of charges of "atrocities."

Terrorism Denied

The communique simply said "all reports of terrorism against the German minority are without foundation."

Another communique denied Berlin reports that music of German composers had been banned by the Yugoslav radio. It said works of Beethoven and Bach were being played constantly.

A statement that the Croat-Serb question had been settled was made by Dr. August Kosutic, emissary of the Croat leader, Valdimir Macek, as he prepared to return to Zagreb from Belgrade to report to Macek. Dr. Kosutic said Macek would come to Belgrade later today.

Explaining the government order against evacuation of cities and towns without permission, General Simovic said all persons who left their permanent homes for the provinces would be compelled to return.

The only travel permitted to the Yugoslavs henceforth will be for vital business reasons or for persons attempting to reach their permanent homes.

Giving further point to a declaration by the Croat peasant leader Vladimir Macek that chances of avoiding war with Germany were slight, Skolpje had an air raid alarm when three foreign planes of undisclosed nationality scouted over that important south

Negaunee, Mich., April 2, (AP)—Henry J. Kamminen, 29, of Ishpeming, died this morning in Negaunee hospital as result of injuries he suffered early Sunday morning when he was struck by a car which had been hit by one driven by Jacob Korvela, of Palmer.

Korvela, arrested for driving drunk following the accident, has pleaded guilty to the charge and was fined $100 and sentenced to serve 60 days in the county jail.

SCRAP METALS PRICES FIXED

Speculative Activity Puts On Pressure for Inflation

Washington, April 2, (AP)—The government today fixed maximum prices at which iron and steel scrap may be sold.

Leon Henderson, defense price stabilization commissioner, said the action was made necessary "by speculative activity which has put inflationary pressure on iron and steel scrap prices during the last few months."

(Scrap enters into the manufacture of defense products.)

The price schedule established three scales of maximum prices: For iron and steel scrap other than that of railroad origin, for railroad scrap, and for scrap for export.

For the first class the maximum on number one heavy melting scrap in $20 a gross ton, Pittsburgh, with differentials for each point of major consumption and with corresponding arrangements for various other grades.

Unprepared yard scrap prices are fixed at $2.50 a ton less than the prices on each grade of prepared scrap.

On railroad scrap the maximum is $21 a ton, Pittsburgh, for number one heavy melting steel scrap. Differentials were set for various other points and other types of scrap.

Export prices from Atlantic coast points were set at the maximum for domestic consumers at the nearest consuming point, less freight to the point of export, and plus a $1 a ton to cover expenses incident to exporting.

Commissions to agents and brokers were fixed at 3 per cent of the maximum prices.

The schedule will be effective tomorrow, but persons who bought scrap previously at prices higher than the new maximums will be given one week in which to carry out contracts.

SPEEDY PEACE PLAN DRAFTED IN FORD TIEUP

men was devoted mainly to determining which employes would be called back to work tomorrow under a union-company agreement obtained by Van Wagoner.

Plant Stays Closed

It was decided, Dewey said, to call back "all office people, clerks, timekeepers and the payroll department, as well as workers needed in the various departments to protect the property."

The agreement announced by Van Wagoner provided that the plant would remain closed during mediation, but that maintenance and office workers would return to jobs.

Dewey said "no conclusions" on any matters in the strike dispute itself had been reached.

After receiving the company's further views at the 11 a. m. conference tomorrow, Dewey will go on to another session with union representatives.

Limping from arthritis in his left leg, and carrying a cane, Dewey had come here from his Chester, Pa., home in answer to pressing calls for federal help.

Sightseers Clog Streets

Governor Van Wagoner has indicated he considers the problem one of direct federal responsibility in view of the millions in national defense orders given to Ford. He has indicated the state therefore is in a subordinate position.

The same streets leading to the River Rouge plant which today were blocked by strikers' automobiles were clogged tonight by sightseers' cars driven to the vicinity of the mammoth, 1,000-acre plant, largest industrial site in the world.

The company's appeal to the president was contained in a telegram to Mr. Roosevelt from Harry H. Bennett, company personnel director. In it Bennett charged that "Communistic leaders" were "actively directing this lawlessness."

"Local and state law enforcement agencies," Bennett said, "appear to be unable to cope with the situation. Non-striking employes who have returned to work have been brutally assaulted and mistreated. * * *

Factory Paralyzed

"We respectfully urge your assistance in ending terroristic mass picketing, violence and other lawless acts so that our employes can resume work and make possible our full participation in the national defense program."

The strike, formally begun early today, has paralyzed plant operations. The company has approximately $155,000,000 in defense contracts.

State troopers went to the Rouge plant area, where a number of men were hurt in fights between strikers and non-strikers this morning, at the orders of Governor Van Wagoner. The governor announced that the company had agreed not to attempt to reopen the plant during the period of mediation.

Though clearing highways for movement of traffic, pickets kept their lines intact at the plant gates. The state police, the "full available force" as mustered to Dearborn, plant home, on Van Wagoner's orders, didn't interfere with the pickets.

Ship Brings Food

A Ford company ship, reported to be carrying food for employes in the plant, arrived there this afternoon from Toledo, sailing up Lake Erie and thence the Detroit river and the Rouge river. An estimated 5,000 employes have remained in the plant.

Strikers had relinquished possession of a lift bridge over the Rouge river earlier in the day and the vessel's passage was unimpeded.

First reports on the strike fights, sporadic affairs this morning, indicated about 30 men were hurt, three seriously. Bennett, in his telegram to the president, said "more than 200 employes" were injured.

The company, employing more than 85,000 hourly-rated workers and holding $155,000,000 in defense contracts, conceded the effectiveness of the strike, admitting a complete cessation of operations. Union officials had boasted earlier that the blockade was "100 per cent effective." Even clerical employes and switchboard operators, office employes normally not affected by production activities were barred from the vast property lines by the pickets, who numbered thousands.

The planes remained high aloft and merely reconnoitered over the city, which lies in southern Yugoslavia, midway between Bulgaria and Albania in the militarily important Yardar river valley, but the townspeople were kept under cover eight minutes.

"For all we know," remarked one official, "war may come to us any day this way."

More Troops Massed

An Italian legation spokesman disclosed that "certain conversations" with Yugoslav representatives—intended "to see if any possibilities existed for establishing contact between Belgrade and Rome"—had "attained no result and no negotiations are now in progress."

There had been rumors that Italy, against whose Albanian colony the Yugoslavs might move in case of war with the axis, was trying to smooth matters between Premier Dusan Simovic of Yugoslavia and Adolf Hitler's agents.

The Yugoslav government, sending more troops to the northern and eastern frontiers in an action paralleling reports that the Nazis were moving many soldiers westward across Bulgaria, maintained its air of restraint under violent German press attacks.

The 60 diplomatic representatives of Germany, still remaining here—German Minister Viktor von Heeren is in Berlin—clearly exhibited nervousness and set up a control system to keep the legation informed by the moment of the whereabouts of its employes.

Nazi Emblems Missing

Both of the remaining German news agency correspondents have been made press attaches and thus given diplomatic privileges.

Four German legation buildings are stocked with food—in case. For the moment the Nazis still eat at public restaurants. But they no longer wear Nazi lapel emblems and the swastikas have been taken off their cars.

Newspaper dispatches received in Budapest, Hungary, reported two Rumanian trains carrying wheat and oil to Italy were confiscated by the Yugoslav government. Balkan traffic to neutral Switzerland also was halted, the Swiss war office said.

In Instanbul, it was officially disclosed that President Ismet Iononu of Turkey had sent a message to Young King Peter II of Yugoslavia congratulating him on the military coup which put him on the throne last week, put General Simovic in the premiership and ousted the government which had signed up in the German-Italian-Japanese axis.

Newspapers in Turkey, a nonbelligerent ally of the British, declared that by Yugoslavia's insistence upon retaining its independence the Nazis were being pushed toward war in the Balkans—a war they "did not want."

Fund Of $500,000 Is Granted Lansing Little Legislature

Lansing, April 1 (AP)—The senate today passed a house bill designed to limit the authority of the "little legislature," but giving it an annual fund of $500,000 to spend for emergency purposes.

The bill, which goes back to the house for concurrance in the fund item, would forbid the "little legislature," or emergency appropriations commission to spend its fund for any purpose which the legislature itself could have foreseen or had denied previously.

Senator Earl W. Munshaw, Republican, Grand Rapids, renewed his fight against the $500,000, failing for the second time to trim that item to $300,000. He asserted the additional $200,000 was unnecessary, would be spent if given to the commission, and pointed out it would provide old age assistance benefits for 19,000 persons for one year.

The senate again postponed action on the Post bill to remove the governor's authority to appoint the state commissioner of agriculture.

American Woman Joins Death-Defying Comitaji

BY ROBERT ST. JOHN

Belgrade, Yugoslavia, April 2 (AP)—Ruth Mitchell, who identified herself as a sister of the late American flyer, General "Billy" Mitchell, was sworn in today as the first foreign woman ever to join the revolutionary death-defying Comitaji.

She was given a phial of poison, because the Comitaji boasts no member is ever taken alive, and was made a member of the general staff as dispatch rider for Kosta Pecanec, the white-bearded leader of the organization.

In the peasant hovel where he lives on the edge of Belgrade with the skeleton of one Comitaji hero, Pecanec received Miss Mitchell, former wife of an Englishman, and initiated her into the secrets of one of the strangest societies of men and women in the world.

(Mrs. Martin Fladoes of Milwaukee, also a sister of the late American airman, said her sister Ruth had been in Belgrade for about year, and that her married name was Mrs. Stanley Knowles. She last heard of her by cable about two months ago.)

Pecanec explained to Miss Mitchell how for 400 years the Comitaji harassed the Turks in guerilla warfare and how the same methods will be used when and if the Germans cross the Yugoslav frontiers.

Miss Mitchell watched him cross her name off the list of those who have applied for membership, explaining:

"We just cross the name off, my girl, because we consider you dead when you become one of us. We value our lives as nothing. We may all be dead in a few weeks. I expect to die myself this time. How about you?

"I am willing, too," Miss Mitchell replied instantly.

GERMAN SHIPS BURNED AT SEA

Mexican Marines Block Plot to Scuttle Nine Seized Vessels

Lima, Peru, April 2 (AP)—The German merchant ships Muenchen and Hermonthis which fled Callao harbor Monday night were discovered burning and sinking more than 200 miles south of Callao, the Peruvian naval ministry reported tonight.

The Peruvian cruiser Grau located the ships and then began looking for the crews. Lifeboats were missing from the ships.

The armed Canadian merchantman Prince Robert was known to have been off this part of the western South American coast recently, since it called at Callao harbor a few days ago.

OVERPOWER CREW

Tampico, Mexico, April 2 (AP)—German seamen on the 9,660-ton liner Orinoco resisted but were overcome by a Mexican boarding party tonight as the marines frustrated an alleged plot to scuttle and burn the axis ships harbored here.

Vice Admiral Luis Hrtado De Mendoza said the captains and crews of nine seized vessels in Tampico harbor had plotted to destroy their ships sometime tonight.

Se said marines had discovered in the exhaust line of the Italian tanker Fede a TNT bomb so connected that it would explode the moment the engine was turned over.

Allis Plant Case Is Turned Over To Defense Mediators

Milwaukee, April 2 (AP)—Officials of both the Allis-Chalmers company and its striking CIO union, commenting on certification of the 71-day labor dispute to the defense mediation board, declared tonight their willingness to negotiate a settlement.

"The company is glad to cooperate with this latest move of the government to settle the strike," a company spokesman stated.

Harold Christoffel, president of the United Automobile Workers plant local, stated that "we are ready to negotiate with anybody in the interest of settling the strike satisfactorily."

He said, however, that in connection with the defense mediation board, "my stand is the same as that of John L. Lewis—I am opposed to the formula of getting the men to return to work and then negotiating."

Christoffel earlier had wired President Roosevelt opposing any transfer in mediating from the U. S. conciliation service.

Detroit, April 2, (AP)—Maurice L. Bein, Chicago contractor under indictment on charges of bribery and perjury in connection with the $8,300,000 Herman Gardens housing project, surrendered late today to Circuit Judge Homer L. Ferguson.

Earlier the Detroit city council expelled John F. Hamilton, one of three members accused of having sold their votes for concrete construction for a total of $25,000. The vote was unanimous.

PRODUCE MEAT, FARMERS URGED

Government Will Pad Up Prices to Increase Food Supplies

Washington, April 2. (AP) — A broad program to encourage greater production of meat, dairy and poultry products to meet greater needs anticipated under the lend-lease program will be announced, probably tomorrow, by the agriculture department.

The program contemplates padding prices of these products at levels which would encourage expanded production. The price-pegging mechanism would be government operations in the commodity market.

Officials said the program was approved at a White House conference yesterday attended by Secretary of Agriculture Wickard and Leon Henderson of the defense commission. It will be submitted tomorrow to the national agricultural advisory council, composed of representatives of the food processing and distributing trade, farmers, the public and labor.

Under the program, the department would assure producers that the price of corn, their principal feed, would not advance beyond current levels. Government commodity loans have pegged corn prices at the present levels. The department would also take steps to make government-owned corn available to producers at or about current market prices.

Mt. Clemens, Mich., April 2 (AP)—Dr. Arthur W. Spring, secretary of Macomb county draft board No. 2, said today Benson Ford, 21, grandson of the founder of the Ford Motor Co., had failed to pass the selective service physical examination.

He said Ford's case would be referred to the medical advisory board at Harper hospital, Detroit, for further study "in order to avoid any suspicion of favoritism."

Dr. Spring, declining to reveal on what grounds Ford was found physically unfit, said classification would be deferred pending receipt of the advisory board's report.

Two Ore Carriers Stopped by Harbor Ice; Await Help

The ore carriers, Joliet and Marquette, of the Cleveland Cliffs line which left Milwaukee late Tuesday afternoon arrived at a point just south of the Sand Point lighthouse here yesterday early in the afternoon—and stayed there.

The boats did not seem to be able to make much headway through the 18 inch harbor ice beyond the point where the Coast Guard cutter Tahoma had cut a path on Monday.

It could not be learned last night whether or not the cutter or an ice crusher would come here to aid the carriers in making their way to the docks for ore.

The boats will probably continue to attempt to get into the harbor today whether help comes or not.

HATCHET KILLER HAS 2 VICTIMS

Fugitive From Detroit Mental Hospital Confesses

Detroit, April 2. (AP)—Francis Rumsey, 67, and his wife, Mary, 66, were fatally hacked and bludgeoned in their home here tonight and Police Sgt. Charles Buckholdt said Hyman Wagman, 27, inmate of a hospital for the mentally ill, had confessed the killings.

Police described Wagman as a fugitive from Eloise mental hospital, where a staff member said he had not been under strict confinement recently.

Buckholdt said Wagman declared he walked away from the hospital today, stole a hatchet from a department store counter and went to the Rumsey home to "get even with" John Rumsey, 28-year-old son of the slain couple, believing John had insulted his mother years ago, when John Rumsey and Wagman were schoolmates.

Entering the Rumsey house unobserved, police quoted Wagman as saying, he encountered the elder Rumseys in the basement and there beat them on the head with the hatchet. They died of their wounds soon after in Receiving hospital.

Survivors Tell How Fast British Sunk 3 Italian Warships

Athens, April 3 (Thursday) (AP)—Survivors of the Italian cruisers Fiume and Zara, and the destroyer Alfieri, declared upon their arrival here last night that British warships destroyed their craft in last week-end's naval battle "ten minutes before we were able to fire a single shot, and caused enormous casualties."

Rescued by a Greek warship, the Fascist sailors asserted hundred of seamen and petty officers, trapped below decks, went down with the Italian ships when the British opened fire Friday night.

Two Year Struggle Ends; City Now Owns All of Sand Point

The city of Escanaba completed a good stroke of business yesterday.

For $4,500 it purchased from the United States government the thirteen acres of federal land on Sand Point, a purchase which now gives the city complete control of the shore line from the Hansen & Jensen dock on the north shore to as far as the junction of Seventh avenue and Lake Shore Drive on the south side, excepting the 300 feet on either shore reserved for the government lighthouse.

The story of the purchase of the land is a long but interesting one.

Began In 1938

It began back in May, 1938 when the city first became interested in securing the property for a proposed new water plant site. Since that time, of course, plans for a well water system have been completed but the city has wanted the land for park development anyway.

No simple matter, the purchase has involved two years of correspondence between the Department of Commerce's bureau of lighthouses, ex-Congressman John Luecke, the U. S. Treasury Department's procurement division, Senator Prentiss M. Brown, the Commissioner of Public Buildings of the Federal Works Agency, and any number of other single individuals representing the parties interested.

Finally, after the government was in possession of all the data about the Sand Point property including an aerial map, an aerial photo, several drawings, innumerable descriptions of the land and a sketch of the city's long-time plan for the entire lake front area, it ultimately became convinced that the city had no ulterior motives, that its request to purchase the land was legitimate, regular and in the best interests of the general public.

So they decided to sell.

No Cinch

But is isn't legal apparently, for the United States government to sell its property except by public auction to the highest bidder and only then after the land has been duly described and the notice of the sale officially advertised.

When City Manager George E. Bean was eventually successful in carrying the deal this far, the council authorized him to offer $4,000 for the property. Then, individually and collectively they held their breaths, hoping no one would pop up and offer a lot more money for the land. The city's own assessed valuation of the property is $6,000 and the lighthouse bureau had set a valuation of $5,000 on it.

When the day of the sale arrived, Mr. Bean was on hand in the great city of official pronouncements and legal machinery, ready and waiting to persuade the sharp eyed gentry in the sonorous sounding Real Estate Section of the Public Buildings Administration of the Federal Works Agency that anyone who bid more than the city of Escanaba for the land was not a public spirited citizen.

But the city's was the only bid.

So, said the gentlemen of the Real Estate Section after hemming and hawing and harumping, we cannot give you the property yet. Your bid is legal and proper but it is too low, so we throw it out and call the whole thing off.

Not to be thus brushed off after two long and laborious years of haggling, the city manager, in two hours of coaxing, cajoling and beguiling, convinced them that the city could not pay much more but was willing to be reasonable—reasonable to the extent of another $500—at any rate.

They didn't like it much, but they yielded eventually and said that if the Escanaba city council would pay $4,500 they could have the property.

The council quickly voted for the extra $500 upon Mr. Bean's return to the city, dispatched the news to the capital, sat back again to wait.

Yesterday, the good news came. A telegram from D. H. Sawyer, chief of the Real Estate Section said: "Contract for purchase of old lighthouse reservation mailed to you this date. Deed will follow by mail to postmaster with instruction to deliver to you upon receiving payment in full for property."

It was hard going, but it was worth it.

There are only two reservations in the deed. The city must continue to give the government a cable right of way between the lighthouse on Sand Point and the north shore light and it must not erect any structure that will obstruct the view from the lighthouse to the Minneapolis Shoals light.

With the additional land the city has developed on the point there is actually almost 18 acres of property there.

RETAIL WORKERS SALARIES LOW

Census Statistics Show Escanaba Paychecks Below Average

Washington, D. C., April 2 — Retail workers in Escanaba receive lower wages than the general level throughout Michigan, and some lower than the average wage paid throughout the country.

In Escanaba the average retail wage is $918 annually; in Michigan it is $1,030; while for the country as a whole it is $984.

Escanaba's retail businesses provide employment for 731 workers, who receive a total of $671,000. Employees and pay rolls as reported by the Census Bureau, include paid executives of corporations but not the number and compensation of proprietors of unincorporated businesses.

Based upon a reported $6,922,000 of net sales, between nine and ten cents of every consumer dollar spent in Escanaba stores pay wages.

General merchandise stores in Escanaba give jobs to more workers than any other single retail group, hiring 217 and maintaining an annual pay roll of $189,000. This represents $871 for each employee.

This Is the Way "Boy Meets Girl" at Camp Livingston

Camp Livingston, La.—The old age problem of "how boy meets girl" came to a simple and abrupt solution for the troops of the 32d Division, stationed here, when two hundred young women of Alexandria volunteered to be "on hand" at the dances to be held one night a week at the new Service Club for enlisted men, which will be opened shortly in Camp Livingston.

The young women, whose voluntary enlistments are for the "duration," first submitted their names for approval to the Alexandria Civic committee headed by Mayor and Mrs. V. V. Lamkin, who in turn has submitted the list to Chaplain Lester C. Doerr, Division Chaplain, and Mrs. Caroline S. Adams, senior hostess at the camp. The young ladies will be attended to the dances, and other social functions in which they will meet the soldiers by chaperons selected from the various civic organizations of Alexandria.

Four hundred enlisted men will be privileged to attend the dance on Friday of each week. They will be selected from each regiment and their conduct will be the deciding factor whether or not their company commander will issue the necessary pass for them to attend.

Camel Steaks

Settlers in the American west of the 1870s and 1880s relished wild camel steaks. Descendants of a herd imported from Egypt by the army in 1856 and turned loose because they caused horses to stampede, the camels multiplied rapidly until wiped out by hunters in search of the meat.

Florists Reminded That They Are To Pay Sales Taxes

Lansing April 2 — Michigan florists and nurserymen are reminded this week of their responsibility for sales tax on Easter plants, flowers, shrubs and other floral merchandise sold to unlicensed vendors.

An unusually large sale of this type of goods is anticipated by over 12 hundred licensed growers. A considerable percentage of these plants will be sold by greenhouses to unlicensed vendors for resale on street corners, curbs and roadside stands.

Discusses Tax

Louis M. Nims, sales tax director, commenting on the situation declared, "We are not anxious to put the state to the expense of licensing persons engaged in this type of seasonal selling but we shall certainly hold the greenhouse or nursery responsible for the tax."

Attention was also called to the tax ruling that makes all orders taken by a Michigan florist and telegraphed to a second florist, either in Michigan or to a point outside the state, subject to sales tax by the florist who first takes the order.

"Bobcat Ed" Quits Trapping Business, Will Go To Detroit

Oscoda — "Bobcat Ed" Anderson, colorful Oscoda county hunter, trapper, and fisherman for the past 15 years is relinquishing his long-term rank as the champion 'cat hunter of this part of the country.

Better opportunities for employment and heavy losses of fishing nets in storms last fall are leading Anderson to desert the Au Sable area for Detroit and city life. For the time being, at least, "Bobcat Ed" has shelved his bow and arrows, with which he has shot 16 'cats in the past 10 years, and tied up Smoky and Tex, his dogs trained especially for bobcat hunting. The bow had a 65 pound pull and the dogs were carried about in a special cage on the back of his pickup truck.

Anderson calls various 'cats by names of swamps which they frequent, such as the "Doan cat" and "Seven Mile Hill cat". He says 'cats are becoming scarce, and that a bounty is unneccessary, since the animals should be hunted only for sport.

Otto DeWaard, Iosco state game area manager who has hunted with "Bobcat Ed", says it is almost impossible to keep up with the stockily built Anderson when he is on a "hot" trail of a 'cat.

Fate in the Balance

As one expedient after another fails to solve the nation's labor problems and defense production becomes more and more hampered by walk outs and strikes, it becomes evident that drastic action by the government will eventually become a necessity, unless warring factions within the ranks of Union labor can be brought to an amicable agreement. An authority on labor matters recently revealed that ninety per cent of the labor disturbances of the past six months involving defense industries have developed over jurisdictional differences between the CIO and the American Federation of Labor, rather than because of disputes between employers and employes.

A proposal in Washington on Tuesday for the passage, by congress, of a law that would empower the government to take possession of all plants engaged in the production of defense material, where unsolvable labor disputes develop, was rejected by the president, because of his desire to first determine the efficacy of the work that is to be performed by the newly appointed federal mediation board. The forbearance of the president in refusing to take the first step toward dictatorship in the nation's business is heartening, but there are many who feel that the federal board, in whose hands now rests the probable fate of business in the nation, will be hampered in achieving definite and lasting results, merely because it is not clothed with sufficient power. The board is empowered to hold hearings in labor disputes in defense industries and to publish its findings, but has no power to enforce those findings.

In the meantime all that directly uneffected bystanders in the nation can do is to just wait and hope — that far-sighted leaders in Unionism in the nation will bring about a settlement of the senseless disputes within their own ranks, before government control of all business deals a death-blow to the cause of sane Unionism in this nation.

Did You Pay Your $109?

If you're an average American, $109 was your share of the $14,300,000,000 paid in taxes in the year ended June 30, 1940.

If you paid more, the chances are that it was because you received more benefits than the average; certainly it means that under the conditions maintained by our institutions, you have prospered beyond the average.

Americans never paid taxes more cheerfully than they pay them this year. Never before has it been quite so clear that what we get for our tax money, namely, support of those institutions which make the America way nof life possible, is precious beyond price.

Six Hundred Chapels

Never before, perhaps, has there ever been such a building program as that just announced by the War Department. It is no less than the building of 604 new chapels in military posts and camps throughout the country at a cost of $12,816, 880.

Religious services for Army and Navy men affiliated with various faiths are now held generally in improvised buildings and even in open fields. "Like the church or chapel of the home community," says the War Department, "the Army chapel will be a focal point of influence. In camp it will provide soldiers, their relatives and friends with a comforting point of orientation relating the military environment of the soldier to that of his civilian status."

The American soldier, like the American civilian, is entitled to full opportunity to link himself to a religious faith. The Army in recognizing this and providing for it, builds even deeper and stronger the foundations of America's strength.

Must Be Specific

Too much emphasis cannot be placed upon the suggestion made by W. Stewart Woodfill, Mackinac Island hotel operator, that the Upper Peninsula must be more specific in its tourist advertising in the future.

Mr. Woodfill does not think that advertising copy, which deals with the cool weather, beautiful scenery and other generalities, has much drawing power. He believes that it would be more effective if efforts were concentrated upon publicizing certain notable attractions and places.

Mr. Woodfill is aware of the fact that there are obstacles in the path of such a policy. Certain sections of the Upper Peninsula might become jealous if the outstanding attractions of another section were given a special play. But the obstacles are not insurmountable.

Every county has some distinctive attraction that could be exploited for the benefit of the entire Upper Peninsula. In this connection, festivals present an opportunity for writing some intriguing advertising and publicity copy. Travel editors get tired of stories which deal in generalities, but they will gladly accept those that are newsworthy. Events like the smelt jamborees, blueberry festivals, roleos, vacation schools and color tours effectively lend themselves to such exploitation.

The Employes' Share Rises

The vast U. S. Steel Corporation had almost the same number of employes in 1940 that it had in 1929. It sold goods and services which brought in about $13,000,000 as compared with $420,000,000 in 1929, and paid out $30,000,000 more in taxes.

Apparently the wage and salary increase is not accounted for by high salaries, for the amount paid during the year in salaries of $10,000 and over was less than 1.5 per cent of the total payroll.

If these figures, taken from the annual report of U. S. Steel, are correctly interpreted, it means that a greater percentage of the income of this giant concern is going to those who actually do the work, for the amount paid out in dividends to holders of common stock was roughly cut in half.

This tendency is a rising one throughout industry — to afford actual producers a larger share in the business income, and further, to make reports which clearly and simply show what is being done. Employes who understand these things are the most likely to be content.

ANTI-AIN'TS SURRENDER
(Detroit News)

Once more the common folks have got what they claimed as theirs by right. Dr. E. C. Beck, head of the English department of Central State Teachers College, waves the white flag and announces the surrender of the oligarchy of college English professors. "If you want to," he says, "you may say 'ain't' instead of 'isn't' or 'aren't.' "

What relief that will bring to the millions who remember being corrected at school for what they learned at home! How much those daily corrections contributed to the child's scorn of his parents who revealed their lack of culture by sticking to "ain't."

But it is the way of language to grow by annexing its imperfections and naturaling them. Ain't was so convenient. It saved analyzing in advance the unspoken thought to determine whether its subject would be singular or plural. The American pioneers, who needed their mental energy to scheme for conquest, settlement and development of a continent, wouldn't bother with grammatical technicalities. They invented "ain't" to fit, whether talking about one thing or two or a million.

Scholastics balked and protested. Common school teachers made a point of conscience rigid enforcement of "isn't" and "aren't" accuracy. For a long time the test of grammatical exactitude decided one's claim to being educated.

But the masses had their way. Dr. Beck rules that English, at least American English, has grown by final recognition of "ain't" as proper for those who prefer it.

DO WE FORGET FINLAND?
(Detroit News)

Let us consider what has happened to us. Finland a year ago was on every American tongue. Nothing was too good for her. True, our aid in the war itself was almost entirely moral, and of no practical use against the endless, oncoming enemy. But such as it was, it was voluminous and had the virtue of costing little while leaving us in a pleasant glow of altruism. The brave little democracy was our pet, our hero of the year—but, unfortunitely, only of the year.

Today, only Spain in continental Europe is said to be as hard put for the food needed not for living in any adequate sense, but for the barest existence. Meanwhile, the port of Petsamo is open and outside the British blockade. The Finnish marine could carry supplies from here to the starving country, but her credit here is exhausted. It would be the decent thing to lend a hand now, to a country that is no less gallant today than when it was putting up a miraculous fight against odds of 50 to 1.

We should act, not alone for Finland's sake but for our own, to prove to ourselves that our enthusiasms can be adult, our loyalties a little more than fancies that pass when new distractions come along.

TRAINING OF ENROLLEES
(Ironwood Globe)

As the CCC camps of the country prepare to celebrate the eighth anniversary of the establishment of this organization, reports are current in Washington that certain high officials of the corps are trying to persuade the army to take over the camps, lock, stock, and enrollees, as training schools, particularly for radio instruction.

On numerous occasions since the camps were first established there have been suggestions made that military training should be made part of the routine for enrollees. Now that the country is in the process of re-arming and training a large new army the latest suggestion is more likely to receive favorable consideration.

Feeling at CCC headquarters is said to be that the camps have not been integrated properly with plans to bring the army to wartime strength. The latest suggestion is that the CCC would maintain a few camps for youthful misfits. The rest would be out-and-out army schools.

Enrollees are reported going into defense manufacturing jobs faster than recruits are coming into camps. Job openings for youths from 17 to 23 are higher than at any time in the past eight years. CCC officials say that employers want their men because they have become accustomed to hard work, and because their health is uniformly good.

You'll usually find a house with spirits in the cellar haunted—by friends.

In more ways than one you're safer getting health than wealth. No one tries to borrow it.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY PEARSON AND ALLEN

Washington—The Navy has been making some careful studies of how to carry out Roosevelt's promise of a bridge of ships across the North Atlantic to carry supplies to England. One result is a unique plan for anchoring flat-bottomed scows or barges in mid-Atlantic to serve as refueling depots for airplanes.

The plan is not yet perfected, and still awaits higher-up approval. But here are details of the revolutionary idea.

British experience in the North Atlantic has shown that scouting-bombing planes are the most effective protection for merchant vessels. Planes can sight an undersea boat at a far greater distance than a surface vessel, then drop depth bombs on it.

Chief problem is the refueling of these planes. Expensive aircraft carriers, requiring three years to build, cannot be used as airplane bases in mid-Atlantic. They are too easy targets for submarines.

However, the flat-bottomed scow does not have sufficient depth in the water to be a target for a submarine torpedo. The scow has a draft of only three feet, compared with a 30-foot draft by a cruiser, and 35 feet by an aircraft carrier.

Furthermore, in the relatively storm-free summer months, flat-bottomed barges would experience little trouble from weather. They would be subject to attack from the air, but on the other hand each would be defended by its own scouting planes, and if it were sunk the cost of replacement would be insignificant.

Whether the barges and their accompanying planes would be constructed for use under the British flag, or whether the United States would risk its own planes that far at sea has not yet been determined. But it is known that the Navy has the scheme under consideration.

—BRAINS, NOT MONEY—

Clarence Budington Kelland is at the top of his profession when it comes to magazine fiction writing, but what he doesn't know about politics would fill the longest serial written.

Kelland, a super-Roosevelt hater, is Republican National Committeeman from Arizona, where he lives on a model ranch. His efforts to spread the GOP gospel there have been something less than sensational, since Arizona still remains one of the strongest Roosevelt states in the country.

Last year, though, when polls showed the President leading in Arizona by a wide margin, Kelland adamantly insisted the state could be swung to Willkie. GOP campaign chiefs paid little attention to him, but Kelland had better luck with the candidate himself. Willkie went 400 miles out of his way to make a speech in Arizona.

Election results confirmed the judgment of the campaign chiefs, but Kelland wasn't satisfied. During the recent National Committee meeting in Washington he postmortemed noisily to a luncheon group which included Mrs. Worthington Scranton of Scranton, Pa., veteran National Committeewoman.

"Money was my problem," complained Kelland. "I could have swung Arizona to Willkie if I had $10,000 more to spend. But I couldn't get it, though I appealed many times to party leaders in other states."

"Well, we had plenty of money in Pennsylvania," said Mrs. Scranton, "and I am sure we would have been only too willing to send you some if we had known of your predicament. We helped other states. But, Mr. Kelland, I'm afraid I can't agree with you about Arizona."

Then, fixing the serial-writer with a critical eye, she added: "More than money was needed there."

—SCATTERING DEFENSE FACTORIES—

Weary Westerners who have been dragging their maps around to Army brass-hats and National Defense chiefs for months, trying to get new factories located west of the Mississippi, view the new Plant Site Board with a wary eye. They're wondering if the new board really will do something about distributing defense industries, or whether it's just a foxy piece of window-dressing.

The Westerners heard Roosevelt promise that all sections of the country would share in the defense program, then watched the brass-hats cram factories into the overcrowded East. They have seen labor shortages, boom town headaches and mass worker migrations develop. Finally they have bee ntipped off that the Plant Site Board was set up to keep Congress from kicking over the traces and creating its own locating committee.

So naturally they're skeptical. And the first meeting of the Plant Site Board increased their skepticism.

At this closed-door session, Donald Nelson, OPM purchasing chief, who has crossed swords with the brass-hats more than once, presented a Defense Commission request that the Board formally adopt a policy of scattering plants.

S. R. Fuller, big rayon manufacturer and chairman of the super Production Planning Board, demurred.

—RUBBER STAMP?—

"Why do we have to adopt a policy?" Fuller asked. "All we're going to do is pass on Army and Navy recommendations."

"That wasn't my idea of the board's duties," drawled Clifford Townsend, OPM Agricultural Adviser. "It seems to me we'd be running out on Congress and the President if we didn't take the bull by the horns and try to spread out defense work."

"Well now," cautioned Fuller, " don't believe we can make any hard and fast rule on locating factories. In some cases it may be necessary to build near existing facilities."

"Why?"

"Because of a shortage in plant superintendents," replied Fuller gravely.

Townsend caught his breath, winked at Nelson, drawled: "It would seem to me

Hollywood Column

BY LUCIE NEVILLE
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

Hollywood—Take a last look at movie pretties in sweaters, and shed a gentle tear. Warning has gone out by grapevine telegraph that the Hays office is working up an official frown for all pictures of actresses in these snug, curve-hugging garments. Hand knit or machine made, fuzzy or plain, wool or cotton, pullover or buttoned style—sweaters are out.

It marks the passing of an era in movie photography—an era that nicely combined sex, umph or It, with radiant youth and the great outdoors. Now studio photographers are wondering what's left on the clothes line that will get the same publicity results and pass the censors.

Nightgowns and frilly lingerie haven't been worn in an okayed still in years. Strapless evening gowns have long been banned, unless the pose shows more gown than girl from the waist up. Negligees must be of firm material, or be unrevealing either in silhouetted shadow or in decolletage.

BOON FOR BOWLEGGED BEAUTIES

Chorus costumes are acceptable, but current movie musicals are going in for specialty acts, not girlie line-ups. Bathing suits are okay—if the poses are modest, but they're classed as leg-art, and besides, studios think it's a little corny to put their players in swim attire the year round. Sweaters have been the perfect substitute for stars who refused to be photographed in bathing suits, and for pretty players whose gams wouldn't win beauty contests.

It wasn't until 1937 that sweaters became a national institution. At that time, Warner Brothers, through Producer Mervyn LeRoy, hired a lissome, curvaceous 17-year-old named Mildred Frances Julia Jean Turner. They renamed her Lana and put her in a picture called "They Won't Forget." The main reason fans didn't forget was because Miss Turner also was put into a skirt and sweater, and ballyhood as the Sweater Girl.

She lost that tag-line eventually, after Metro began dignifying her for stardom, but by that time every studio was launching its cuties by the knit-two-purl-two route. Carole Landis, Jean Parker, Mary Beth Hughes, Anne Gwynne, Diana Lewis, Peggy Moran, Doris Bowdon, Nancy Kelly, Andrea Leeds, Laraine Day, Ann Sothern, Margaret Tallichet, Brenda Joyce—it's harder to name one who wasn't. Even prim Jane Bryan, who stormily refused to pose in bathing suits, was persuaded to don a fuzzy wool topper that gave her healthy-American-girl reputation considerable appeal.

I am not sure that this is the proper occasion for a long speech —if, indeed, there ever is such an occasion.
—Chester C. Davis, National Defense Advisory Commission.

If our young men are to do our fighting, why can't they run the country?
—Henry Ford, 78.

Social institutions are no more perfect for all time than was the dinosaur.
—Mordecai Ezekiel, economist.

The most important fact about youth unemployment in 1941 is that we still have it.
—Report of the American Youth Commission.

World Affairs Reviewed

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Washington, D. C.—One hitherto little-known spot of the world that has come into prominence because of the airplane is Horta, a small village of some 6000 inhabitants in the Azorian Islands. The broad blue harbor of this little city is now a regular stop for planes from New York City to many points beyond the Atlantic.

The Azores belong to Portugal, and are not quite halfway across the Atlantic, being 1000 miles west of Europe's mainland and 1300 miles east of Newfoundland. Nine in all, these islands stretch for a distance of 400 miles, contain a little more than 900 square miles, and support a population of approximately 260,000.

Angra is the Azorian capital, but Horta is the most famous place on the group of islands. For 500 years navigators under sail or wing have sought Horta's sheltered bay. New England whaling vessels from New Bedford or Gloucester found it convenient to make Horta a base in their adventurous quest for whale oil. Windjammers back from rounding Africa paused at Horta before the final long Atlantic stretch to ports of the United States. Now it takes its place as an important port to accommodate modern travel.

Horta's two-mile-wide harbor, ample for boats but cramped for swooping airplanes, became one of the first havens for sea-weary ships of the air on the eastward Atlantic hops. The United States Navy Plane, NC-4, which took off from Newfoundland in 1919 on the first transatlantic flight ever made, landed at Horta on May 17. The Yankee Clipper, twenty years later, on its first trip to carry passengers across the Atlantic, also made its first stop at this little town which has seen so many visitors from all parts of the world.

Because of the strong-winged birds found on the islands by their discoverers, the name Hawks was first applied to the group. Truly symbolic of wings, Horta has ever given wings to words, for the city is the hub of fifteen direct transoceanic cables, the most important cable station in the Atlantic, and one of the vital nerve centers of the world's communications.

Six cable companies have their headquarters in the same building of earthquake-proof construction. These are British, German, French, Italian, and American. The last is represented by two companies. In the center of the building is a four-way window through which the companies keep in touch. Through this window are cleared the news and business dispatches for North America, Europe, and South Africa, mainly in code. If John Doe and Company of New York City, for instance, should cable their agent in Paris, the message from the United States is received at Horta by one of the American companies, is handed through the window to the French, and an instant later it is on its way to France.

But Horto is more than a center of international communications. Located as it is on Fayal Island, it has always been the administrative center for the western group of the Azores. In Horta many Portugal officials live and carry on business for the homeland. The town's white, red-tiled squarish buildings follow the curve of the harbor, rendering it a picturesque and quaint place in which to live. The temperate climate, too, makes it a place where there is no biting wind and no unbearable heat.

—HISTORY AND LEGEND—

The isolated Azores contributed to a belief of the supposed lost continent of Attantis. There is a legend that Carthaginian sailors visited the islands. First recorded by a twelfth-century Arctic explorer, Edrisi, the then uninhabited Azores were lost from man's knowledge until their rediscovery and colonization in the fifteenth century under the direction of the Portuguese prince, Henry the Navigator. They have been ruled from Portugal ever since, except for an eighty-year period under Spain.

Horta was probably the first part of the Azores to be settled. Fragments of history have it that a colony led by Van Tuerta, in the latter part of the fifteenth century, settled the town and named it for its founder. Multitudes of Flemish refugees, escaping from war in the Lowlands, landed at Horta during the early period of the island's settlement. To remnants of this colonization by Flemings have been attributed the strange people of Horta's old fishing quarter, who remained distinct from the Portuguese for several centuries in language and costume.

A half-mile jetty protects the harbor of Horta; there liners may anchor, as well as local fishing vessals. The port is still a center for the diminished Atlantic whale fisheries. Visitors from airliners or ocean liners may walk into the clean, cosmopolitan little town and purchase souvenirs carved from whale's teeth, or carved from the white pith of the fig tree. On sale also is the lace which women of island make from thread fashioned of agave fiber.

The importance of a place is often rated more by its geographic location than by its population. Horta, world central port and center of international communication, stands preeminently in this class.

DILEMMA

Should you speak to everyone
When you drive a new car out?
Or should you speak to no one
And pretend you're in a pout?
I ask myself that question
As I whirl down our Main Street,
Should I speak to everybody,
Or speak to none I meet?

I'll bet it makes no difference,
Bet it's kind of tit for tat,
If I speak or if I don't
Bet they think I'm old "high-hat!"
So I'll choose to greet 'em cheerful
As I penetrate the town,
Guess I'd better "high-hat" kindly
And not do it with a frown!

FARM CREDIT MEN MEET HERE

Federal Officials Appear On Speaking Program; Confab Ends Today

About 100 representatives of various federal farm credit agencies, soil conservationists, Upper Peninsula county agricultural agents, U. S. Forestry service men, members of the Farm Security administration, and a number of other representatives of similar government agencies met here yesterday at the Sherman hotel at their annual Agricultural Credit Conference, sponsored by the Farm Credit Administration of St. Paul.

Purpose of the two day meeting which closes this afternoon is to clarify for the various interested agents the functions and services of the federal agencies.

In opening the conference, John D. Jones Jr., general agent of the Farm Credit association of St. Paul who is chairman of the meeting said, "Although the paths of the various agricultural credit agencies do not parallel, they do merge, and we all find ourselves at the same place."

Claude Nash, of East Lansing, extension specialist in farm marketing, spoke during the forenoon session and stated that there were several definite trends noticeable in Upper Peninsula agriculture. Among these, he said, was a shift to dairy cattle and away from potatoes in some sections. He urged representatives of the federal credit agencies to familiarize the farmers of their areas with the new credit facilities now available.

F. W. Peck, president and Don S. Gray, vice president of the Federal Land Bank, St. Paul, described the loan experiences of the land bank in the Upper Peninsula during the afternoon session. Peck said that up to December 31, 1940, the Farm Credit Administration had loaned approximately $5,000,000 to 2,833 farmers in the U. P.

"The Functions of the Intermediate Credit Bank of St. Paul," was the subject of a talk by F. H. Klawon, president of the Federal Intermediate Credit Bank of St. Paul.

In the opening session this morning George Susens, president, and F. D. Elliott, vice president of the Production Credit corporation of St. Paul will talk on "Production Credit Loans in the Upper Peninsula."

"The Scope and Purposes of the Farm Security Program," will be discussed by H. W. Parisius, assistant regional director in charge of Rural Rehabilitation, Farm Security Administration.

First to speak on this afternoon's program will be Hutzel Metzger, president of the St. Paul Bank for Cooperatives. He will talk on "What the St. Paul Bank for Cooperatives is Doing in the Upper Peninsula."

Leo C. Streater, regional manager of the Emergency Crop and Feed Loan office will discuss "Emergency Crop and Feed Loans" in the final speech of the session.

150,000 Chicago Children To Eat Escanaba Smelt

Escanaba's Smelt Jamboree emissaries to the metropolitan centers report that never in the history of the promotion has the reception been so enthusiastic. For a starter, they already have an order of 25 tons of Escanaba smelt.

The big order came from Frank O. Washam, director of lunch rooms for the Chicago public schools. The smelt will be used in 175 of Chicago's school lunch rooms on April 25. These lunch rooms serve 150,000 children daily. A special menu has been prepared and the children will be served all the smelt they can eat, rolls, cold slaw and milk at the low price of ten cents.

To promote interest in the smelt feed, Mr. Washam has prepared 150,000 four page folders which will be issued to the children at the school cafeterias. The folders are illustrated and tell the story of the smelt and their history in the waters around Escanaba. When Linda Johnson, Escanaba Smelt Queen arrives in Chicago on April 14, she will be taken to the schools and introduced to the students.

Mr. Washam, who has proved to be an exceptional friend of the Jamboree, has also organized a special smelt train to Escanaba. He now has 250 reservations for the train to this smelt capital. The train will leave Chicago at nine o'clock on Saturday morning, April 19 and arrive in Escanaba at four o'clock in the afternoon. Members of the group will be here for the Jamboree parade and will be able to attend the Tacoosh Fiesta at Rapid River. After an over-night stay in Escanaba hotels the train will leave on Sunday morning for the return journey to Chicago.

Included in the members of the expedition will be lunchroom managers, officers and employees of the Chicago Board of Education and members of the Chicago Restaurant association, as well as a number of veteran smelt jamboree visitors.

On Air Today

A second smelt special train will be that sponsored by the Chicago Herald-American. This train will carry between 250 and 300 people. Ed Cochrane, sports editor of the Hearst papers will head the Herald-American Fish Fans club special. Milwaukee fans will join the train when it stops at the Wisconsin metropolis on its way north.

One of the good commercial contacts made by the ambassadors of smelt was with the Curtis Candy company, which is issuing a colored smelt broadside to all of its Baby Ruth dealers in the United States. The poster pictures two smelt and their conversation. One smelt asks the other if it will attend the smelt jamboree and the reply is, "Yes, I'll be there hook, line and sinker."

Metropolitan newspapers and radio stations are using much smelt copy this week and the Chicago and North Western railway has been receiving many inquiries about trains to Escanaba at its Chicago offices.

The smelt party will broadcast from WLS at noon today and at 12:15 from WCFL.

Detroit and Lansing are cities in addition to Chicago and Milwaukee where smelt publicity has aroused interest that tops anything in previous years.

Reflectors If Blackout Comes

POTATO YIELDS IN COUNTY FALL

Statistics Show Decline In Production For Delta County

Washington, D. C., April 2—Michigan Congressmen are rather proud of the State's record for potato production during the past ten years, but they are not bragging about Delta County production, since it showed a startling decline.

The Census Bureau has reopened the great potato fight which has raged, off and on, for the past three or four years, with the latest state-wide production figures for the six principal potato states—Maine, Idaho, New York, Michigan, Pennsylvania, Minnesota, and Wisconsin.

This data shows that Delta County production fell to 185,780 bushels in 1940 from 2,328 acres and 1,159 farms, as compared with 359,218 bushels from 3,367 acres and 1,408 farms five years earlier.

Michigan production increased to 20,455,528 bushels from 218,564 acres in 1940 from 15,911,808 bushels and 223,794 acres in 1930, a ten-year period. With the exception of Idaho, which doubled production from 14,304,596 to 26,605,110 bushels, Michigan showed the largest gain, and now ranks fourth leading potato state.

Besides Idaho, it is exceeded by Maine and New York, but Maine's production is falling fast and New York showed but a slight gain in the past ten years.

Prisoner Paroles Suggested To Aid Defense Industries

Detroit, April 1 (AP)—Frank X. Martel, president of the Detroit and Wayne county Federation of Labor, suggested today that skilled and semi-skilled workers in Michigan penal institutions be paroled to make up shortages of these workers in defense industries.

He advanced his plan in a discussion with advisory committees of the training-within-industry section of the office of production management, and of the vocational educational program for national defense.

"There is a large prison population idle in Michigan because of insufficient work for them, which is due to Michigan legislation preventing the sale of prison-made goods," Martel said, "I feel that there are many men eligible for parole who have not been considered because the last three governors have shut down on paroles."

Cafeteria Bus Boy Cooks Up Play For Ruth Chatterton

BY NEA Service

New York.—Patrons of a certain downtown cafeteria recently have been startled to hear a tall, thin, curly-headed bus-boy mutter under his breath as he cleared away their plates.

They would have been even more startled had they known that the muttering signified the Muse at work—that 25-year-old George Donald Batson, better known to his fellow employes as "Georgie," was making up lines of dialogue for a play.

Batson the bus-boy is no more. For Batson has a new role to play, that of the promising young playwright who authored "Treat Her Gently," a comedy in which Ruth Chatterton soon will start a nation-wide try-out tour.

HE HOPES THAT SHE WON'T MIND

A WPA course in playwrighting was the nearest to college training that Batson ever came. He has been writing, producing, directing and acting in his own dramas, as an amateur and a professional, ever since he was 15. He worked at odd jobs for the late Federal Theatre Project, wrote a marionette show, "Time on Your Hands," for the WPA exhibit at the World's Fair. He took the cafeteria job as a stop-gap.

"Treat Her Gently" is about an actress "of the late Jeanne Eagels type" who returns to New York from Hollywood. Batson is leaving for Amarillo, Tex., to polish up the play after its first performance, and his only worry now is that Miss Chatterton may mind his having been a bus-boy.

"Please don't call me a 'Cinderella Boy'," he pleaded before leaving.

"Copy Cats"

The ancient defenses which guarded the outposts of the Roman Empire against the northern barbarians are followed closely by the present Siegfried and Maginot lines.

George Donald Batson . . . no "Cenderella boy."

Pittsburgh Co. to Spend Six Million for Ore Carriers

Cleveland, March 31, (AP)—Pittsburgh Steamship Co., U. S. Steel Corp., subsidiary, announced today award of contracts for three new ore freighters for its fleet of Great Lakes carriers.

The vessels will be identical with two for which contracts were awarded March 25—largest ore carriers ever to be built on the Great Lakes, said President A. H. Ferbert.

Two will be built at Lorain, O., by the American Ship Building Co. and the third at the Great Lakes Engineering Works, River Rouge, Mich., which also received contracts for the two vessels announced previously.

Shipping circles estimated the cost at about $2,000,000 each.

The boats will have a 640-foot overall length, 614 foot keel length, 67-foot beam and cargo capacity of about 17,500 tons each. All will be single screw, turbine drive bulk freighters.

Nikki, Mr. John Super-Salesmen

BY AMY PORTER
AP Feature Service Writer

The ordinary principles of salesmanship do not apply to women willing to pay $50 and up for hats, $150 and up for gowns. (The difference between a dress and a gown is about $75.)

Instead of yessing madame, the purveyors of these gilded products deal in insults, ridicule, and slapstick comedy.

There's Madame Nicole, or "Nikki," milliner and dressmaker. She knows that her customers pay and pay not for hats but for style—and Nikki's own peppery personality.

* * *

A dignified dowager came in the other day, and Nikki first kissed her on the cheek and then lit into her.

"Thees hat! Horeebla!" Nikki bent double laughing. "You look like a thing in a zoo. No elephant, the other one—rhino somezing."

* * *

Nikki snatched the hat off the lady's head. The dignified one grabbed for it, protesting. "Oh really, Nikki dear, don't be silly."

"Sillee? You're the sillee one to wear that awful thing. Come, I feex you.

Nikki fixed her, all right, with a hat and a dress and a suit, the total running to the price of a new destroyer.

Nikki was born very poor, and was a peasant, she's proud to tell you. She was one of 14 children and she guesses her mother never owned a hat.

Nikki has a collection of nineteenth century French fashion books, the equivalent of our Godey Lady books, on which she draws for inspiration. She likes that era—the pretty colors, the ruffles, the lace, the embroidery, the look of dignity and elegance.

* * *

A salesgirl interrupted our conversation.

"Mrs. X is here. She wants to buy that hat she looked at yesterday."

"I doan' like her. Tell her she can't have it."

"But she wants to buy it right now."

"I doan' want to sell it. Tell her scram."

* * *

JohnFrederics known as "the boys," do business in a comic opera setting they refer to affectionately as "the bird cage."

The entrance hall is lined with caissons, and Foreign Legion uniforms hang along the walls. Next you see armored knights with gardenias in their hands and in their mouths. These knights are wired for sound so that gardenia-scented music comes out of them.

Mr. John says, "So you don't like hats? All right, I'll sell you a parasol. Want some chocolate? Here take a parasol. I'll make a thing to match it."

And pretty soon there you are fixed with a parasol and a thing, which may turn out to be gloves, blouse, bag, scarf, or petticoat. Most often he sells "a hat and a thing," millinery being his main business.

* * *

His was the classic remark on the hatless trend: "I don't care if women do stop wearing hats. I'll just sell them hair ribbons at $35 apiece."

* * *

Mr. John has been known to take off a lady's hat and throw it right out of the window.

The boys' last big fashion show cost them about $40,000 and was full of carefully calculated nonsense such as pantaloons and bulgy bosomed dresses and pink stockings. "Early Americana," said Mr. John.

Their public murmured: "It's wonderful, of course. But do you suppose Mr. John could have his tongue in his cheek?"

Barr P-T Unit Sixth Graders Night, Success

One of the most enjoyable P. T. A. meetings of the year was held Tuesday evening at the Barr School where a large number of parents and teachers were gathered. The members of the sixth grade, pupils of Miss Mary Teusink's room, acted as hosts, and Mrs. O. L. McCormich, Program Chairman, turned the meeting over to Dorothy McClellan, who presided.

First on the program was the singing of "The Star Spangled Banner", with Jim Betts, accompanist. Then other pupils of the sixth grade gave brief talks on "Australia", each one touching upon some different phase of the continent. Jim Hirn spoke on "Location and Population of Australia". John Houle spoke on "Climate and Distribution of Population." Ronald Olson gave a resume of the most important "Australian Cities." Raymond Schmelter spoke on "Resources and White Australia Policy". Richard Broad briefly described "Plant and Animal Life".

This was all a preface for the showing of beautiful colored moving pictures of Australia, Hawaii, Pago Pago and the Fiji Islands, which were taken by W. R. Smith on a trip that he and Mrs. Smith made about a year ago, and were presented by their son, Wm. J. Smith.

Miss Mary Meighen, Supervisor of Grade Schools, gave a helpful talk on "Cooperation Between the Home and School", calling attention to the importance to the child of the parents and teachers learning to know each other.

Miss Meighen, in her talk, emphasized the points brought out by John Dorsey, M. D., psychiatrist for the Children's Center, Detroit, in a study of the subject, "What Constitutes a Good Home?" and also enumerated ten commandments for parents, compiled by John A. Lemmer, superintendent of the Escanaba public schools, both of which follow:

A Good Home

1. The members of the family should have a mutual goal and should understand the tremendous influence of developing good habits early in life.

2. A good home should develop in its various members respect for the rights of others.

3. The various members should learn the value of sharing-with-others.

4. A good home should instill in the children a sense of responsibility and a feeling of self-reliance.

5. A good home is keenly aware of the significance and importance for later life of the relationships of the members of the family.

6. The home should develop unselfishness and tolerance of its members towards others in the community.

Commandments

1—Thou shalt accept thy child as he is, and treat him as a person, not as a possession.

2—Thou shalt give him a child's responsibilities.

3—Thou shalt be calm and patient, honest and sincere, firm and consistent and understanding.

4—Thou shalt give him courage and confidence through your belief in him.

5—Thou shalt help him to meet his disappointments.

6—Thou shalt compare his progress with his individual capacity and not set up a standard of a bright brother or sister or neighbor's child for him to follow.

7—Thou shalt teach him to respect the rights of others, letting him understand that he must give and take.

8—Thou shalt refrain in his present from deploring with others his problems and his shortcomings or boasting of his accomplishments.

9—Thou shalt help him to see and to appreciate moral and religious values.

10—Thou shalt be a good example.

Group singing followed, led by Frank Hirn, with Miss Esther Carlson as accompanist.

Business Session

A short business meeting was held, with Mrs. F. L. Betts, presiding, and Mrs. Alfred Potvin was appointed chairman of the summer round-up of prospective kindergarten children. Mrs. Ragnar Back will assist Mrs. Potvin.

During the social hour the sixth graders, with the assistance of Mrs. William Daniels and Mrs. Clyde Knutsen, hospitality committee, served refreshments which were furnished by the mothers of the pupils.

The next and last meeting of the Barr unit will be held on May 6, at which time the newly elected officers will be installed.

Peggy Donahue, student at Mount Mary college, Milwaukee, was one of the soloists at the annual spring voice recital given at the college recently. She sang "The Star" by Rogers.

At the former she sang "Ave Maria"-Bach-Gounod, and "Suicidio" (LaGioconda) Ponchielli. At Marinette she sang "The Star" by Rogers and "Maidens Remember" by Dalayrac.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wayne Haddock, of Emporia, Virginia, are the parents of a son, born Wednesday morning, April 2, at St. Francis hospital. The baby is the second in the family, the first, also a son, Robert Wayne Haddock, Jr. Mrs. Haddock is the former Betty Babcock of this city, and Mr. Haddock is a son of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Haddock.

Defense Will Be One Subject Of P-T Convention

Flint—April 2 — Views of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers on the national defense emergency and its possible effects on education are to be outlined to the 2500 delegates of the Michigan Congress of Parents and Teachers expected to attend the state convention at Flint April 23, 24, and 25.

The message of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers is to be brought by Mrs. Logan G. Hughes, of Indianapolis, who is national vice-president for region 4, embracing Indiana, Illinois, Ohio, Michigan, Iowa and Wisconsin.

In addition to Mrs. Hughes, the speakers at the Flint convention include Judge J. M. Braude of Boys' Court, Chicago, who has attracted nation-wide attention by his handling of the so-called boy problem and his insistence that there are no "bad boys"; Dr. Paul Witty of Northwestern University, prominent in the field of child development research who is to be the banquet speaker Thursday, April 25; and Dr. Caroline Hedger, a member of the staff of the Elizabeth McCormick Memorial Fund.

Problems occasioned by the national emergency and the war in Europe are expected to bring a record breaking number of delegates to the annual state convention. The program will include election of officers. Mrs. Edgar C. Thompson of Highland Park, Michigan, is the present president, a leader of 85,000 parents and teachers in 1199 units, scattered in all parts of Michigan.

Highlights of the convention will include, Mothersingers from all over Michigan, about 500, who will sing at the banquet; a men's breakfast; district dinners; exhibits of history books, publicity books, room representatives, safety, books, etc.; conferences on various phases of parent-teacher work and techniques; and a lobby community sing.

VERSATILE FABRICS

The spring shopper will find on fabric counters many dress materials that make attractive luncheon and breakfast sets. Such a fabric is a new lustrous linen-weave of spun rayon available in bright fruit shades and pastels as well as dark tones. It is washable, sun-fast and wrinkle resistant. Using one color for the cloth or runners and a harmonizing color for the napkins makes an interesting treatment. Fringing makes a suitable finish.

Student Days In '80s Monotonous, Even To Hash Served Day After Day

East Lansing, Mich. (UP) — A student's innermost thoughts of his college back in 1880 were revealed when a letter written by a Michigan State College student was made public in the college newspaper.

The unnamed student, writing in a flowing Spencerian script to a "girl back home," adorned his stationery with a private conception of the college seal—a skilfully drawn shovel and pickax crossed over a plate of hash.

The school, then known as Michigan Agricultural College, apparently was not well supplied with co-eds, as the writer complained there were "no girls to talk to; to see a lady on the grounds is quite a novelty."

"When I tell you that you are the last girl I have spoken to except the waiter, you probably will think so too," he wrote, in a sly effort to convey his loyalty.

Mud appeared to raise another unpleasant aspect of college life in the '80s, and the student said he had been to town only twice during the term and had to walk back in the mud both times.

The monotony of the same food day after day was described in detail and lack of sleep occasioned staying up until midnight all but two nights also caused the author discomfort.

The letter evidently was not in the romantic vein, as the young woman was sent a difficult algebra problem which the student asked her to solve and return to him. In exchange, he said, he would "treat" her when they next met.

A meeting of the Union literary group was described in great detail.

"The meeting was held in a basement room," the letter read, "which is nicely carpeted and has a raised platform. They have as nice an organ as in Methodist church and a better sounding one, I believe. There were three essays, a declamation and a debate and after dismissal they sang comical songs for about an hour."

The debate, it was explained, was on the question: "Resolved: That the moon does not influence the weather."

In concluding his letter, the youth gently chided the young woman because he had heard that she "wouldn't take the temperance pledge."

"I put on the ribbon one year ago last Sunday," he wrote, "and I haven't broken my word yet — not even on sweet cider."

KruGon FOUND FAVOR WITH MICHIGAN LADY

Was Well Pleased With the Surprising Results KruGon Gave Her; Is Feeling Better In Many Ways; Strength Returning

"KruGon gave me far better results that I had hoped for," said Mrs. C. Granzow, 107 West 7th St., Royal Oak, Michigan. "For fifteen long years I had been in a miserable condition. My health problems began when I became badly constipated and then various complications soon developed. My digestion became poor and I always had to be careful of my diet as gas formed in such abaundance so soon after eating I could hardly stand it at times. Too-active kidneys caused my rest and sleep to be broken until I was constantly tired and worn-out. At times I found work an awful drudgery in my condition and I actually thought I would never be any better when I began the use of KruGon."

"My only regret today is that I did not learn of KruGon long ago," continued Mrs. Granzow. "This tonic-laxative gave me surprising results for now my bowels are regular in removing those clogged intestinal impurities. I no longer fear digestive upsets following my meals, sleep the whole nights through without a single disturbance, strength and energy is returning and it is really wonderful to feel so well again. It is no wonder KruGon has become so popular . . . it is a deserving remedy."

KruGon is sold by West End Drug Store, 1221 Ludington St., this city, and by the leading druggists in surrounding towns.

WE, the WOMEN

BY RUTH MILLETT

Average parents let their children choose — within a certain price range—what college they will attend.

That would be all right if a boy or girl went at the matter of deciding on a school in a sensible way, finding out about many, and choosing the one that seemed to offer the best instruction in his chosen field.

But at sixteen, seventeen, or eighteen the average boy and girl are not sure just what they want out of their chance at a college education.

A boy may even be immature enough to choose a school because he knows he can make a fraternity there, because "the gang" are all planning to go there, or because the school has a football record he won't be ashamed of before his friends.

And yet many parents today let their children make this important decision entirely unguided.

They wouldn't if they would bother to read a new novel, "Feast of Reason," which has more pointed things to say about education—especially progressive education—than any book published in a long time.

It's a novel, but it is a shrewd commentary on modern education. Here's what the author, Dorothy Walworth, has one character, a school teacher, say:

"Who would have thought, even ten years ago, that we would have to teach our young people to believe in democracy?

"We've got to give them, first of all, a sense of security. We blame them for wanting security so much, for trying to organize their pressure groups to get it, but it's ourselves we should blame. Security is the one thing these kids never had, so they set too high a value on it.

OLDER GENERATION IS AT FAULT

"A sense of security comes from intelligent discipline. A sense of security comes from an atmosphere of faith and hope, and ever since they were kids, they haven't had faith and hope around them.

"They've heard that America itself is weak and insecure. It has been the fashion to debunk our pioneers and heroes. The great educational God of Psychology has said that our pioneers were only escapists and our heroes succeeded because they were lucky or put something over on the other fellow or had inferiority complexes which drove them on. How can this youth admire what we are or what we are going to be?"

The publishers might have guaranteed that any parent who reads "Feast of Reason" will take a more intelligent interest in who is teaching his child—and what they are teaching him. It's that provocative.

National defense's speeding up of industry is giving the young folks of the small towns a chance to go to work in near-by cities.

All through the depression they have stuck pretty close to the small towns—for even though they couldn't earn a living, they at least had a home—if their parents did.

So they earned a little here and a little there at odd jobs—and grew restless.

But they're getting out now. And it's a good thing. A small town can be hard on the boys and girls who grow up in it.

If Susie's teeth are crooked at twelve, the town marks her up as homely, and no matter what she makes of herself and her looks later on, the best she can expect to have said about her is "Well, Susie does pretty well with what she had to start with. She was such a homely girl.

NEVER OUTGROWS HIS FAMILY

And Joe never outgrows his family, "good, honest people, but not much get-up-and-get. Always just barely managing to get by."

When you're young and eager to show the world how good you are, it's terrible to be held down to the picture the home town folks have of you. It is seldom a flattering picture.

The home towns of America don't have much respect for the "poor but honest." They aren't always the wholesome sort of places that writers love to paint.

They can be snobbish—and they can hold down their young people to what their fathers were before them. If a bright boy or girl wants to rise above his family, he may have to get away from his home town.

So national defense is giving the boys and girls of the small towns a break. It is giving them their chance to get out and make good. It is one bright side of a dark situation.

BY FREDERICK GARDNER

New York, April 2 (AP)—The stock market swung into step with a late rally in grains and cotton today after a minor setback in the forenoon.

Mail order, rubber, oil, motor and miscellaneous shares showed a touch of the "inflationary" spirit exhibited in commodity markets.

Most stocks recovered all or the greater part of the earlier declines and small gains outnumbered losses at the finish. The Associated Press composite price of 60 stocks was up .1 point at 41.7, the third consecutive advance of that size.

Steels and motors, shadowed by strike troubles and threats of more wage disputes, led the way down in the forenoon selling, but recovered with other groups in the final hour. U. S. Steel emerged 3-8 higher.

Rails likewise mostly made up earlier losses to show fractional increases at the last. These included Santa Fe, New York Central, Southern Railway and Great Northern preferred.

While the soft coal tieup was expected to interrupt the upward trend in loadings, the main business tide was assumed in brokerage quarters to be moving favorably for the carriers.

Prolonging of the Allis Chalmers dispute brought more selling into the stock, which dropped to a 1941 low around 28, off 1 1-8. American Telephone was down only a shade in face of the federal communications commission move for investigation of Bell System long distance rates.

Among senior shares, top 1941 prices were recorded in Continental Baking A, American Car & Foundry preferred and Chicago Great Western preferred. The Car & Foundry issue jumped 2¾ to 68¼.

The tremendous defense spending in sight for coming months, shipping shortages and possibility higher loan rates might be fixed under the U. S. farm control program stirred "inflation" talk in the financial district.

How long stocks could resist a rising commodity trend was a subject of discussion among market analysts.

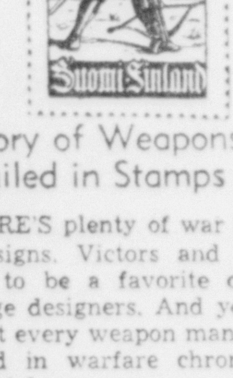
Dealings increased on the rally, making the day's turnover 445,510 shares, against 433,730 yesterday.

Aluminum Co. of America rose 3½ in the curb list to 140. Electric Bond & Share preferred stocks were up 2 or more and Alabama Great Southern Railroad climbed 5¼. Most curb stocks showed only minor changes up and down.

Milk Fund Gets Jackpot

El Paso, Tex. (UP)—A Texas Ranger dropped into the headquarters for an El Paso milk fund and left $6.50 in pennies on the desk. The money was taken from slot machines seized in El Paso.

• STORIES IN STAMPS



History of Weapons Detailed in Stamps

THERE'S plenty of war in stamp designs. Victors and victories seem to be a favorite choice of postage designers. And you'll find almost every weapon man has employed in warfare chronicled in the catalogues.

Typical issue is Finland's stamp, above, picturing a cross-bowman of the late middle ages.

Man probably fought first with his fists, so a Greek stamp pictures boxers. Later he took up clubs, then spears and bows and arrows. Stamps of Ruanda-Uranda show primitive spears and shields; archers are well scattered through the stamp albums from Bolivia's natives to Switzerland's William Tell.

Early armor is pictured in Italy's stamp showing Aeneas at the head of his army, and later developments of body protection can be found in Rhodes' Crusader, Liechtenstein's knights, Portugal's chain-mail clad King Alfonso Henriques. Morocco's Ramparts of Sale show an old cannon.

Modern armament is plentiful, especially in Russian, Spanish, Austrian and Italian issues. Austria showed men in trenches and a siege gun of 1914. Russia depicts all the horrors of modern warfare, including bombing and gas, in a 1934 series. Spain has machine gunners and grenade throwers.

And don't forget the anti-aircraft gun of the U. S. defense series.

New York, April 2 (AP)—The bond market remained under the cloud of profit selling in the rails today and, while there were numerous firm spots, the majority of active issues tapered off for losses of fractions to a point or so.

Total volume of $11,722,000, par value, was the smallest for any full session in more than a week, and compared with $15,857,700 Tuesday.

Brokers said the ability of some issues to turn around in the afternoon, when there was a flurry of buying in stocks, indicated offerings came principally from "quick turn" traders who had accumulated profits in recent sessions.

Bearing out this theory was the action of some of the leaders on the recent rise, including Missouri-Kansas-Texas 5s, Baltimore & Ohio convertibles of '60, Seaboard Airline stamped 4s and St. Paul 5s, all of which sold off fractions to more than a point, but mostly ended up from the day's lows.

International Mercantile Marine 6s moved up 2½ points to 87½ on light demand and International Hydro Electric 6s, a strong spot on Tuesday, added another ¾ at 48¾.

Others moving ahead for moderate gains included Columbia Gas & Electric 5s at 103¾, Continental Oil 2¾s at 104½, Firestone Tire 3½s at 104¼ and Texas Corp. 3s at 104.

U. S. governments were quiet on both the stock exchange and over the counter. The longer-term treasuries were in some demand by banks and institutional investors and prices were generally a shade improved.

Art Student Drowns In Hotel Bath Tub

New York, N. Y., April 1 (AP)—Mary Jane Mock, 29, an art student from Detroit, was found dead in the bath tub of her Hotel Tudor apartment today. The hotel physician said she had drowned.

Detectives held the case open but said they believed death was accidental as they had learned she was subject to fainting spells. Police notified her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James C. Mock of Detroit.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

that it might be a little simpler either to train new superintendents or have each one supervise two plants by telephone or airplane, than to force thousands of workers to migrate across the country to an already overcrowded community."

This reasoning, apparently, made sense to the other Board members. Despite Fuller's protest, the policy proposed by Nelson of scattering plants was adopted. Also, Edwin Martin, crack young economist, was named as the Board's research director.

Martin and his chief, Sidney Hillman, also favor dispersal of defense plants, but the Westerners, after months of disappointment, say that the Plant Site Board still has to prove it really can influence the brass-hats. Seeing, they say, is believing.

—MERRY-GO-ROUND—

Bishop Sheil, liberal assistant of the late Cardinal Mundelein, came to Washington to officiate at the christening of Marguerite Josephine Corcoran, daughter of ex-Braintruster Tom Corcoran.

DOLLARS TO DOUGHNUTS

BY EDITH ELLINGTON

COPYRIGHT, 1941, NEA SERVICE, INC.

YESTERDAY: Anthony takes his Big Idea up to the merchandise manager. Bee waits anxiously, knowing that if he is successful he will ask her to marry him and her masquerade will be ended. A customer tells her that she wants her husband to see a dress. Bee doesn't expect the woman to return, but she does. And her husband is Jenkins, Beatrice Huntington Davenport's chauffeur!

BEE BEGS FOR HER JOB

CHAPTER XX

Jenkins' hands were deep in the pockets of a striped purple suit, and a slouch hat was pushed back on his head. He had the air of a man enduring inhuman punishment.

He was protesting to his wife. "But listen, suppose she stays in South America the rest of the year? You think the old man's going to keep me on a salary for doing nothing? I tell you, I might be out a job and you want to buy more dresses!"

"I might not buy it. I just want to try it on."

Beatrice gained control of herself even as Jenkins' eyes wandered around the department. She turned her head just before the moment when that roving eye would surely have lighted on her face. She dived for the fitting room curtain, her heart racing. Behind her, she heard Mrs. Jenkins saying, "I think that's the girl who waited on me."

"I've got to get out of here," Beatrice thought swiftly. "I simply can't face Jenkins. I can't have it all exposed now!" It was an hour until lunch time, and she had a customer in the fitting room. A customer who was trying to soothe a whining little boy. "I'll be through in a minute, Junior. In just a minute."

Miss Getz appeared, providentially, and Beatrice cried, "Oh, Getzie, please take my customer, in there. I—I don't feel well."

Miss Getz stared, but Beatrice had turned and ran. She slipped through the curtains at the other end of the fitting room aisle. Miss Dane was on the phone, her back to Beatrice. Beatrice fled through Housewares, and into a waiting elevator.

She'd go up to the soda fountain, linger over a forbidden coke, and then she'd loiter on the main floor. How long would Mr. and Mrs. Jenkins wait down there? "If he'd only talk her out of the whole idea, and drag her away!"

• • •

Over the coke, she wondered again about what was happening upstairs. "I'll sign the slip for it," she told the soda clerk.

"If you ask me, they ought to give us the cokes," the girl said while Beatrice scribbled her name, number and department across the back of the ticket. "What's a coke to the Duchess, anyway?"

"Two thousand cokes might be something," Beatrice suggested mildly.

Having finished her drink, she wandered into the stocking department. "I certainly need some, too. But $1.35 . . . that's too much." She fingered 79-cent hose until the speculative eye of a main floor section manager sent her scurrying again. As she passed one of the side street entrances, a sudden thought struck her. "Jenkins lives in Queens. I bet he's riding around in my car!"

She walked boldly out the door. Sure enough, there a little way down the street, her shining black town car was parked. She regarded it with strangely mingled emotions. "I ride the subway, and Jenkins and his wife skylark around in that."

She wondered maliciously, how Jenkins would like it if she simply got in the back seat and sat there, waiting for him. "The shoe would be on the other foot then, my good man," she thought. Yet she was aware that she was not half so outraged by Jenkins' flagrant abuse of his privileges as she would have been before she came to work in Huntington's.

The doorman, who had been busily handing an old woman into her car, shook his head at Beatrice. "You want to catch pneumonia?" His eyes twinkled. "Any time you feel like sneaking out for a breath of air, be sure it's me on the door, and not that other man. He'd tell on you quick as look at you."

She took the escalator to the basement. From Children's Clothes, she peered into Budget. The Jenkinses had definitely left. Beatrice sighed with relief, and marched back.

• • •

Miss Dane was drumming dangerously on the wrapping desk, her blood-red fingernails managing to call forth an unpleasantly loud sound from the scarred wood. "Where have you been?"

"Upstairs for a coke," Beatrice confessed meekly.

Miss Dane's throat purpled. "How dare you leave the floor? You were taking advantage of the section manager's absence, that's what you were doing! I have a good mind to fire you right now!"

Beatrice bit her lip. All at once, she wanted fiercely to scream. "Go on, fire me! Fire me, and watch me mess your job up and your whole darned department—watch me mop you up in 10 minutes!"

But sweet though it would be to put a bomb under Miss Dane, the thought of Anthony Bradley stopped her. She simply couldn't ruin everything now! He was on his own, up there with the merchandising manager. He was working out a scheme he had thought up himself—he would soon be getting a promotion he had earned. "The farther he gets away from this low-paying section manager job, the less it will hurt him to know I've been lying . . ."

If Anthony could convince himself that he was standing on his own two feet in this store, if he knew beyond any shadow of a doubt that he was valuable and appreciated—perhaps later, when inevitably he discovered that Beatrice owned the store, he wouldn't feel that he held his job only because she loved him. Because Beatrice had long ago decided that Bruce Sheldrake, who was too high and mighty to explore trivial details, was going out on his ear, some fine day. And Anthony Bradley, after serving the training she was certain Grandfather would have wanted, was going to occupy that perfectly appointed office upstairs with "General Superintendent" on the door.

So Bee Davis, salesclerk in Budget Fashions, let Miss Dane, the Budget buyer, fume at her. Bee dropped her eyes and tried hard to look contrite.

"Yes, Miss Dane," she murmured meekly. "Oh, Miss Dane, I'm so sorry. I'm so very sorry."

And finally, when she saw that Miss Dane was working herself up into a veritable tantrum, and when she realized that the eyes of every girl in the department were focused on them, Beatrice took a deep breath and burst out, tearfully, "Please, Miss Dane, don't fire me! Oh, Miss Dane, I need my job. I promise I'll never do it again. Really, I won't, Miss Dane." Her wide eyes lifted tragically to the contorted face of the buyer. "Miss Dane, you won't fire me, will you?"

• • •

She had learned, the day she applied for this job in the personnel office, that if you stood up to people they respected you more. But she had learned, too, that power was sweet to women like Miss Dane. Women who had so little else to glory in. The power of life and death, of hiring and firing, made autocratic tin gods of them. If you begged, they liked to see you grovel . . . and they grudingly dispensed a little mercy, after you'd humbled yourself enough.

But Miss Dane surprised her. For, instead of the mounting fury, instead of more threats and final humiliation, Miss Dane suddenly crumpled.

"Stop that!" she grated. "Don't cry, you fool! Do you think I like trampling all over you? But I haven't got it so easy myself. . . . They took my stock girl, they keep raising my sales figures higher and higher. I'm nearly crazy, that's what I am! I was a salesgirl myself once. In those days, the store had some heart. Mr. Huntington wasn't hard-boiled, he didn't drive people . . ."

To the never-to-be-forgotten stupefaction of the entire Budget Department, Miss Dane herself burst into tears. She wailed, "Go away, you young idiot. Let me alone! Oh, I wish I never had to see this place again!"

She covered her face with her hands, and turned to Miss Getz, who had somehow crept closer. "Getzie, Getzie," she choked. "It wasn't like this in the old days, was it?"

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you. 4-2

A Proclamation

It has been our custom each year to set aside a definite time for consideration of the part the army of the United States has played in our national program and of our needs for the national defense and the preservation of peace for our people. This year, therefore, Friday, April 4, has been designated as Army Day in Michigan.

For over a century and a half, during periods of war and peace, we have depended upon the army for protection and as a preventative of war. The city of Manistique is well represented in the various branches of the United States army.

In accordance with the national and state-wide observance, I urge our citizens to participate in a fitting celebration on April 4, 1941. May I request that the National Colors be displayed throughout the city, and that appropriate exercises be held in schools and elsewhere, so that appreciation of the services and traditions of our army may be appropriately expressed and thoughtful consideration be given to our country's welfare in this period of disturbed conditions abroad.

Given under my hand and the seal of the City of Manistique, this 2nd day of April, Nineteen Hundred and Forty-One.

Frank M. Hutt,
Mayor.

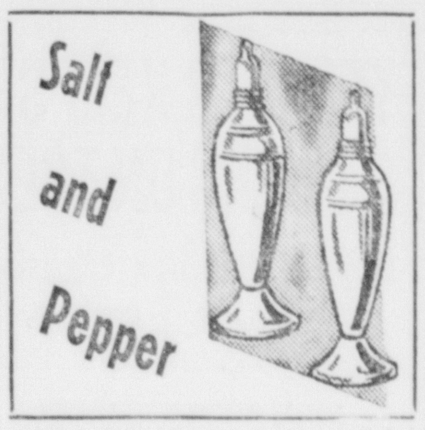
E. D. Stoetzel To Speak At Safety Conference Here

E. D. Stoetzel, director of industrial relations of the Marathon Paper Mills, who operate plants at Ironwood, Rothschild, Menasha and Ashland, will be one of the speakers at the U. P. Safety Conference here June 19, it was announced yesterday.

Mr. Stoetzel will speak on the subject, "Employing for Safety." He is considered a forceful and interesting speaker and has a thorough knowledge of industrial relations, personnel problems and safety supervision.

Mr. and Mrs. Alva Byers and son of Nahma spent Monday here with Mrs. Byers' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Needham.



Pot of Gold—A rumor circulated in Manistique yeserday that a Germfask resident, otherwise unidentified, found a pot of gold, worth $1,300, while excavating a basement Tuesday. Investigations at Germfask failed to confirm the rumor, which may or may not be unfounded. Press readers who can shed any light on this 'mystery' are urged to contact the branch office here.

Tom Thumb Circus—A lot of Manistique children are disappointed at the announcement yesterday that the Tom Thumb Circus, scheduled to show at the Manistique high school auditorium Friday, will not be able to keep the local engagement. The circus delighted a crowd of 1,400 kiddies two years ago and was scheduled for a repeat performance. The circus changed its booking agency and the new agency did not honor the schedule previously arranged.

It's Really Spring—Any doubts you may have had that this isn't really spring, but merely the lull before the storm, can now be dispelled. The Manistique fire department is busy these days burning grass in the various lots where dry grass constitutes a fire hazard, and testing and checking its fire hose under hydrant and forced pump pressure.

The Spotlight—Pete Babladelis and Charles Robinson, local bowlers, were the whole show at the Upper Peninsula bowling tournament at Ishpeming yesterday. The local bowlers rolled their singles and doubles events at the tournament, and were the only entries scheduled for the day in the U. P. meet. They will return to Ishpeming Sunday to roll in the team event.

ELECTION POSTERS

April 2, 1941

Mr. Ken Gunderman, Manager
Escanaba Daily Press
Branch Office
Manistique, Mich.

Dear Sir:

I noticed in your column of Tuesday, entitled "Salt & Pepper," an article in which the Republicans charged that every sign that was put up in Schoolcraft county for the Republican candidates, was torn down in the last week or so.

I took the liberty to ride in several sections of the county the following day and saw that only a few had been destroyed or bent back which could have been very easily caused by the wind. I did notice that approximately twenty signs for the candidacy of G. Donald Kennedy and Edward W. McFarland, Democrats, had been intentionally torn either in part or completely down.

I don't know who is doing this underhanded work, but I know that it is not the intention of the Democratic county committee, to have such a condition exist, and I don't believe that the Republican county committee is at all in favor of it. It is only too bad that these culprits could not be caught and prosecuted, as it certainly is not doing either party one bit of good.

Yours very truly,
Leonard N. Multhaupt,
Manistique, Michigan.

SOFTBALL RULES ARE POINTED OUT

Butts Advises Teams As To Purchase Of New Spring Ensemble

Bevier Butts, city recreation head, yesterday called attention of U. P. softball fans and players to new rules relative to that sport. A meeting of local team sponsors, managers and players of various leagues likely will be scheduled about the middle of this month, Butts said, and play is tentatively slated to start May 19.

Pitcher's Uniform

Butts declared that "all softball teams planning on buying uniforms for this season should bear in mind the latest rule relative to uniforms, to wit:

"All visible parts of the uniform and accessories worn by the pitcher shall be of the same dark blue or black color, with no lettering or trimming on the front of the uniform. (The change in this section requires pitchers to be dressed in dark colors when playing either day or night games.)

Girls' Rules

"Michigan Softball association has adopted the following rules relative to sanctioned girls' softball:

"Any girl in order to play in inter-city or tournament competition under this association must have reached her 16th birthday before the player deadline on July 1. Every girl whose name appears in the lineup must have a signed statement from a registered physician certifying that she is physically able to play softball. Responsible women must accompany the team on every trip, one to each car. Members of the team (not men) must coach on first and third bases during games.

"Not more than three games may be scheduled in any week, nor more than one game per day during tournament or other competition. A week begins on Sunday and ends the following Saturday. No games shall be scheduled between a girls' team and a men's team."

Softball Policies

"The following recommendations relative to girls' softball were adopted by the state association's executive board:

"To establish, in so far as possible, rules and regulations for inter-city softball games for girls which will promote the best possible outcome of health, citizenship, recreation, and social objectives. To provide an opportunity for the athletic type of girl to participate with other girls of equal skills and abilities. To promote the idea that for the best interest of girls coaching, officiating, and general supervision of the game should be done by qualified women recreation leaders or volunteer leaders with sufficient background to insure desirable health and social outcomes. To promote the idea that adequate standards of administration are necessary for desirable social and health outcomes of the participants. To inform the public that softball was originated as a man's game, and that they may expect only comparable performances from the athletic type of girl. To administer these games so as to encourage girls, of the athletic type, to participate without conflicting with their standards of social and citizenship behavior which are associated with girls' and women's sports."

Marquette Plans Saturday Scrimmage

Milwaukee, Wis.—A regulation scrimmage Saturday is the promise of Coach Tom Stidham as he prepares to wind up the first week of outdoor spring football practice at Marquette university.

Four hard workouts in the school gymnasium last week prefaced the stadium drills of candidates for the 1941 Golden Avalanche, and served to prove that the squad, generally speaking, was in good physical condition and ready for the tough spring grind.

Confident Cub Clouters

Chicago Cubs to Feature 2 Lou-Lou's During 1941

BY HARRY GRAYSON
(NEA Service Sports Editor)

Pacific coast baseball men told those most interested in the Chicago Cubs they had two Los Angeles Lou-Lous— . . . Stringer as well as Novikoff, and Jimmy Wilson, having seen for himself, now knows they were right.

Louie Novikoff was accepted as a left fielding certainty from the outset, but to date the 21-year-old Louis Bernard Stringer has been much more impressive than the home run manufacturing Mad Russian . . . the outstanding member of the Wrigley party, as a matter of fact.

Wilson says Lou Stringer is the finest recruit he has seen in his 19 years in the National league . . . declares the Los Angeles high school product can't miss being a great infielder.

Stringer wasn't supposed to be able to play anywhere but at second base, but with Billy Herman anchored there he was ordered to turn his attention elsewhere.

Stringer Stars

Stanley Hack is a fixture at third, so young Stringer centered his attack on shortstop.

Already Stringer, in a strange position, makes it appear as if that move was totally unnecessary.

Billy Meyers, as things are going now, will be nothing more than a reserve infielder.

What pleases Wilson most is that Stringer has attracted attention through his hitting more than his fielding.

So you can imagine Wilson's delight when in a stretch of 10 games he traveled at a .583 clip. Among a number of healthy pokes was a 400-foot homer. In two engagements with the Pittsburghs, he hit a home run, a double and a half dozen singles in 10 trips.

Off On Right Foot

Rave notices about Stringer doesn't mean Wilson has been disappointed in Clouting Cossack Novikoff.

The big boy from Los Angeles' Boyle Heights was just striking his terrific stride when he rode a home run home on a charley horse . . . a swat against the Pirates, deep into the right centerfield seats at Los Angeles' Wrigley Field.

Novikoff obtained a late start in training and has been worrying under pressure because he knew so much was expected of him.

Novikoff has demonstrated he can smite the sphere magnificent distances, and his fielding, save on ground balls, has been a pleasant surprise.

'Fire' Trucks Is Regarded As Fine Detroit Prospect

BY WATSON SPOELSTRA

Lakeland, Fla.(AP)—For a young fellow who appears to be approaching an important crossroad in his baseball career, Virgil Oliver Trucks is somewhat of a philosopher.

With the axe poised over the Detroit Tiger spring training camp ready to lop off half a dozen or more of Manager Del Baker's hired hands, Trucks is looking hopefully toward a chance to make his first trip north. Should he be sent back to the minor leagues for more seasoning, the 190-pound right-hander is confident that he'll be back to achieve stardom in the major leagues.

Fast Ball Artist

Trucks is a fast ball pitcher of the Bob Feller and Buck Newsom variety. With Beaumont in the Texas league last year he won 12 games and lost 11 but finished with three victories in the post-season playoffs. Roy Johnson, former Tiger outfielder, had a look at Virgil's speed last year and classified the 21-year-old hurler as a sure-fire big league prospect.

Because of his speed, Virgil readily acquired the nickname of "Fire" Trucks in 1938, his first season in organized baseball. He struck out 418 batters that year for Andalusia of the Florida-Alabama league for an all-time baseball record.

Michigan Natators Face Strong Foes

Ann Arbor, Mich., April 2 (AP)—A paradox of modern collegiate swimming—a Michigan team actually afraid of defeat—existed here tonight as the Wolverines prepared for an all-out defense of their National A. A. U. title against stars from every part of the nation.

Even the most partisan sidewalk dopester, and there are many of them up and down Ann Arbor's historic State street, was quick to admit defeat is hanging over the head of Coach Mat Mann's nautical squad. Ironically, a former Michigan competitor may be that slender thread between defeat and victory.

Spartan Wrestler Joins The Air Corps

East Lansing, Mich., April 2 (AP)—Eight applicants, including Benjamin F. Riggs, 22, of Ponca City, Okla., co-captain of the Michigan State college wrestling team, were accepted today as flying cadets in the army air corps.

A board which is conducting examinations of central Michigan applicants to the college said 14 applicants already had been accepted and others were awaiting completion of tests. Others accepted included James G. Hauser, Grand Rapids, a University of Michigan senior.

Ypsilanti, Mich., April 2 (AP)—Along with a ban on late hours, smoking and drinking, members of the Michigan Normal baseball team received a new training rule today. Tobacco chewing will be absolutely taboo in the Huron camp after this week, Coach Ray Stites decreed.

The regulation was requested by Prof. Joseph H. McCullough, head of the college physical education department. Licoice and other substitutes will be tolerated for the time being, Stites said.

Derby Favorite Wins In $5,000 Maryland Handicap Feature

Bowie, Md., April 2, (AP)—Omission, a lightly-regarded Kentucky Derby eligible, came up with a brilliant mud-running performance in his first 1941 outing today to score an easy victory in the $5,000-added Rowe Memorial handicap before a crowd of 8,000.

Jockey Don Meade, who flew here from Florida to ride Victor Emanuel's colt, booted the dark brown three-year-old son of Jock and Neglect to a smart four-length victory over E. K. Bryson's Clyde Tolson.

Three lengths back in third place was Mrs. Anthony's Pelleteri's Catapult, with half a length's advantage over Alfred G. Vanderbilt's Good Turn, another derby eligible, and the betting favorite in the Rowe Memorial.

Illinois Alumni Are Peeved Over Losses

Chicago — (AP) — Victory-conscious alumni in southwestern Illinois and Missouri have informed the board of trustees that the University of Illinois' recent low ranking in football and track should be investigated.

The trustees meet in Chicago but President James M. Cleary said that he thought the institution's athletic officials could handle the situation.

"I feel that the conduct of intercollegiate sports at the university is under capable administration by the board of athletic control," Cleary said. "Four of its seven members are former Illinois football stars and they are among the most rabid fans.

TEBBETS KEEPS TIGERS ON TOES

Detroit Catcher Chatters At Rivals, Umpires, Everyone Else

BY WHITNEY MARTIN

New York—(The Special News Service)—When figuring the pennant chances of baseball teams, it's always a bright idea to give some thought to the abilities of the well-bumpered gents squatting behind the plate who do the thinking for the pitchers.

These mental ventriloquists can make or break a ball team, make a good pitcher look bad and a bad pitcher look terrible, and offhand we can't think of a championship team that didn't have a better than average catcher.

Chirps Like Robin

Tebbetts derived his nickname from the fact that from the moment he steps on a diamond until a game is over he chirps like a robin before a rainstorm. He talks to his teammates, the umpires, the batters, anybody who will listen and some who won't.

He's an intelligent, witty young fellow, seldom abusive and well-liked even by the umpires. He carries on amiable conversations with the batters. That is, all the batters but two. One of these is Mike Kreevich of the White Sox. Kreevich will not respond.

Can't Worry Foxx

The other gent on whom Birdie feels he is wasting his time is Jimmy Foxx. Foxx is as amiable as they come. So much so, in fact, that he will carry on a conpersation even when swinging at the ball. Foxx would hit one out of the park and remark casually as he started for first: "I'll tell you the rest when I get back."

He's an accomplished bench jockey, his high, flat voice carrying to all corners of the field. A few days ago, an umpire called a pitch a ball, and Tebbetts obfiously disagreed. He turned, said something to the umpire, who started to laugh.

"He just said he didn't think the ball was too high," the umpire explained later. "He said the batter was round shouldered and after all you can't make special rules for freaks."

A Hard Worker

He's a hard-working, conscientious lad, is this Tiger terrier, and he has his own philosophy about his work.

"Lots of fellows come up to the majors with more ability than I had," he says, "but they won't learn. They don't try to improve in their hitting, or their fielding, and they come back year after year as perennial rookies. Me, I'm just a .270 hitter, but a fellow can learn to hit so he can help the club even if he doesn't boost his average." (He hit .296 last year).

To Play Daily Enroute From The Coast To Chi

Los Angeles, Calif., April 2 (AP)—Chicago's cross-town rivals, idle three successive days because of inclement weather, broke camp tonight with the Cubs heading for Yuma, Ariz., and the White Cox for El Centro, Calif. They will get together again Saturday at Phoenix, Ariz., and will play a daily set of games all the way home.

The ailing Sox, followed by an illness bugaboo since the training season opened, listed another casualty today when Walter Navie, rookie southpaw pitcher, came down with an ear inflammation.

The condition of Pitcher Johnny Rigney and Coach Monty Stratton was reported improved. A physician discovered a streptococcus infection in Rigney's throat and pneumonia germs in his lungs. Stratton is bedridden with bronchial flu and a cold.

WAIVERS ON LEE

Chicago, April 2 (AP)—The Chicago Daily News said today Bill Lee, Chicago Cubs pitcher who has been a determined holdout against a salary reduction, will come to Chicago next week to attempt to settle his dispute with the National League club.

It was reported here the Cubs have obtained waivers on Lee from all other 15 major league teams, opening the way to send him to the minors. The Cubs general manager, James Gallagher, is expected to arrive here tomorrow.

MELTON SHOWS SPEED

Miami Beach, Fla., April 2 (AP)—With Big Frank Melton whizzing his fast ball past the Syracuse Chiefs most of the afternoon, the Phillies captured their last exhibition game of the season here today, 3 to 0.

Melton, in his six innings on the mound allowed two hits and struck out two. His successor, Roy Bruner, gave the International League visitors one hit.

CARDS WIN, 18-3

Albany, Ga., April 2 (AP)—Veteran Lon Warneke pitched the entire nine innings and was never in danger as the St. Louis Cardinals defeated Albany of the Georgia-Florida League 18 to 3 in an exhibition baseball game today.

Don Padgett, made over by the Cardinals from an outfielder to a catcher, played third base for one inning.

BUNGLES LOSE GAME

Fort Benning, Ga., April 2 (AP)—Errors nullified the neatest hurling stint of the Cincinnati Reds' training season today and the world champions lost again to Boston's American Leaguers, 3-0.

With his brother John receiving him, Elmer Riddle allowed three safeties in eight innings, longest stretch so far for a Redleg pitcher.

PIRATES WIN, 8-2

Hollywood, Calif., April 2 (AP)—Bob Johnson's ninth inning home run with a mate on base saved the Philadelphia Athletics from a shutout today as they bowed to Pittsburgh 8 to 2.

Prior to the big smash the A's had been held to four singles and had not been able to get a man as far as second base. Rip Sewell hurled six innings for the Pirates and Max Butcher the remainder of the game.

GIANTS LOSE AGAIN

Selma, Ala., April 2, (AP)—The Cleveland Indians captured their fourth victory in five games with the New York Giants 3 to 1 today as Al Smith and Ken Jungels collaborated in a hurling duel against Harry Gumbert.

A home run by Gee Walker gave Cleveland its first score in the second and an error by Joe Orengo helped the Tribe tally twice in the third. But after that Gumbert was invulnearable and became the first Giant hurler to go nine innings.

YANKS ON RAMPAGE

Oklahoma City, Okla., April 2, (AP)—The New York Yankees overpowered Rogers Hornsby's Oklahoma City Indians today 10 to 4 with a barrage of five home runs and as many doubles.

Joe DiMaggio hit two of the circuit blows and Twink Selkirk, Joe Gordon and Tom Henrich each contributed one.

MEDWICK HITS TWO

Fort Worth, Tex., April 2, (AP)—Joe Medwick and Curt Davis sparked the Brooklyn Dodgers to a 6 to 4 triumph today over the Fort Worth Cats of the Texas league.

Medwick hit successive home runs over the 20-foot wall in left field, 400 feet from the plate and added a single for good measure.

WYATT HURLS BLANK

Valdosta, Ga., April 2, (AP)—Whitlow Wyatt, counted upon as one of the mainstays of Brooklyn's pitching staff this year and the first hurler to go the route in spring training, shut out Valdosta of the Georgia-Florida league 3 to 0 on three hits today for the Dodgers' second stringers.

Brooklyn made 13 hits, among them home runs by Alex Kampouris and Jim Wasdell.

NEED LICENSE TO DIP SMELT

Raess Warns Fishermen About Law for Using Nets

Menominee. — D. H. Raess of Escanaba, Menominee-Delta counties district supervisor, Michigan conservation department, Wednesday told dipnetters that they legally can take any early running smelt in Menominee county streams. The season opened March 1 and will remain open until May 31.

An important preliminary for all prospective smelt dippers is the purchase of a Michigan fishing license. The license fee is $1 for state residents and once purchased entitles the holder to fish all open waters of the state for such fish as may be in season until December 31. As smelt dipping is done in the streams which are inland waters the license is required. Each spring some fishermen come up with the idea that the license is only for hook and line anglers. Such is not the case, as the law definitely states that the license is required of all persons over 17 years of age fishing in any manner in the inland waters. The wife of a licensed fisherman needs only license identification which is issued without additional charge. Non-resident anglers pay $2 for a similar license. A special 10-day non-resident license is issued for $1, a non-resident's wife can obtain a 10-day license for 50 cents.

Non trout streams in Menominee county that empty into Green Bay in which dip and hand nets are legal for taking smelt follow:

Menominee river, Turtle creek, Birch creek, Beattie creek, Bailey creek, Johnson creek, Rochereau creek, Fowler creek, Kleinke creek, Sugar creek, Auger creek, Cedar creek and Olson creek.

Only hand nets are legal in Deer creek.

Bob Pfotenhauer Wins Tournament

Bob Pfotenhauer, high school sports star, defeated Kositzke in the finals of the DeMolay ping pong tournament and will carry the colors of that order in the city finals.

In the semi-finals Kositzke eliminated Howard Johnson and Pfotenhauer displaced Bill Williams. Other players were J. Burdick, B. Bowers, D. Swellander, P. Stein, B. Stephens, D. Rehnquist, B. Roberts, H. Peterson, A. Stein, Konell and Abe Stein. The DeMolay doubles will be played next Wednesday.

BEN HOGAN NEAR PEAK OF GAME

Long Hitter Under Par In Practice for Augusta Meet

Augusta, Ga., April 2 (AP)—The almost grim determination with which Ben Hogan has been hunting down flaws in his game served notice on the 48 other starters in the Augusta Masters golf tournament tonight that the poker-faced Texan is going to be a tough man to tangle with the next four days.

Hogan came down here from Asheville, where he won to finish in the money for the 45th straight time, convinced there was something decidedly wrong with his game. Off his record this sounds like carrying perfection to extremes, but not if you know Hogan.

The Madam Talks

Mrs. Hogan, who knows him very well, explained.

"It's when Ben starts worrying about his shots that I usually stop worrying," she said, while her husband was out shooting a three-under-par 69 in his final practice round over the perfectly-groomed Augusta national course.

Hogan's was only one of several subpar scores as the boys finished warming up for tomorrow's first 18-hole round. U. S. open champ Lawson Little and Jimmy Demaret, the winner here last year, had 68's.

Horton Smith Hot

Horton Smith, only two-time Masters winner, got his putter blazing for a 69, as did amateur champion Dick Chapman, and Dick Metz, who was playing his up twice, had a 70 and 71, the first round. Craig Wood, runner-latter score being matched by Jug McSpaden.

P. G. A. titleholder Byron Nelson, who won in 1937, had another par 72. That also was the best individual score returned in the four-ball match in which Tommy Armour and Bobby Jones finished all-square with Gene Sarazen and Walter Hagen.

SCHUMACHER HOLDS RECORD

New York — Some National League pitcher who is handy with the stick can set himself a record this year by hitting seven home runs. The record, set by Hal Schumacher of the Giants, is six.

Last year not a single hurler in the senior circuit could collect two homers.

SQUEEZE PLAP

Los Angeles — Chicago Cubs consume a crate of oranges a day. Maybe this will help them in making the squeeze play.

WINS TITLE, FAINTS

St. Louis — The excitement of winning the novice 160-pound Golden Gloves championship was too much for Sam Vosevich. Right after he received his golden glove emblem, he fainted in the ring.

TOUGH ON PA

Harrisburg, Pa.—Pennsylvania legislators say they should bar Freddie Fitzsimmons from the state this year. The Brooklyn veteran won 12 of his 16 victories last season from the Pittsburgh Pirates and Philadelphia Phillies.

Gehringer And Waner Start 16th Seasons

BY WHITNEY MARTIN

Tampa, Fla., March 30 (Special News Service)—This little story is a blend of the careers of two of baseball's most remarkable performers, and it is written largely because they are approaching their 38th birthdays and yet appear headed for highly successful seasons of active service.

Their names are Paul Waner and Charley Gehringer, and the two of them together have about as much of what is commonly considered color as a basketful of fog. They are baseball machines, well-oiled (don't get that wrong) and noiseless, and their histories back through the years offer a strange parallel at least on the diamond.

Both are starting their 16th year as major league regulars, although Gehringer was up briefly for two years before his regular debut. Gehringer has played for Detroit every year, Waner played only for Pittsburgh until his signing with Brooklyn this year after his release by the Pirates.

Amazing Stick Records

Each has dropped below the .300 mark in batting only twice. Waner has the astonishing lifetime average, major and minor, of .340. Gehringer's average is .326.

Waner is a thin, wan, sad-looking individual with drooping figure and drooping eyelids so you can't tell whether he is just going to sleep or just waking up.

There is something coldly impersonal about his mechanical playing, so much so that one day after he had hit two triples off Harry Eisenstat, then pitching for Brooklyn, Eisenstat came into the clubhouse sputtering and fuming.

"It isn't that he hit two triples; I knew he's a good hitter," he raged. "It's just that he hasn't looked at me yet. He doesn't know whether I was throwing right handed or left handed."

Which pretty accurately describes Waner at bat, at that. He seems to be looking out into left field somewhere, when all of a sudden the pitch is made and powie! A line single or double or a long triple. He is credited with having about the sharpest eyes in baseball, and a phenomenal wrist action makes it possible for him to place his hits, or even foul off balls he doesn't like.

He is as noiseless off the field as he is on it, although among his friends he opens up on occasion. He has never used rubbing alcohol in his life. Larry French once told him that rubbing the legs made the muscles flabby, so he has avoided the trainer's table and still has a sturdy pair of pins.

Mechanical Perfection

Gehringer is a rangy, bow-legged gent, silent but far from morose. He has a keen sense of humor and will sit back in a corner of the dugout concentrating on the manufacture of a wisecrack to slip into the general conversation. Some of his puns are atrocious.

He has ball-players' eyes, a clear, catlike grey, and he has a fascinating little dent in his nose. He's a ball-player's ball player, but the fans are beginning to appreciate him too. At St. Petersburg the other day he got the biggest hand of all when he stepped up to the plate.

He can't run as fast as he once could, but he still covers plenty of territory around second base, and he makes difficult plays with effortless grace. We saw him flip the ball back-handed to the shortstop on one split-second double play as if he were tossing aside an apple core.

Astonishing gents, Mr. Waner and Mr. Gehringer. At a time in their baseball lives when they should be testing folding chairs in the clubhouse shade they are playing championship baseball for the championship contenders.

Buffalo Trims Bo-Bo Newsom And Tigers, 2-1

GORSICA, TROUT TO FLING TODAY

Mickey Roscoe Pitches International Loop Nine to Win

Lakeland, Fla., April 2 (AP)—Louis (Buck) Newsom, a 20-game winner last year and one of the American League's topflight hurlers, was just another moundsman today as the Buffalo Bisons of the International League defeated the Detroit Tigers 2 to 1 in an exhibition game.

Newsom, whose 13 consecutive victories were one reason Detroit won the league pennant in 1940, yielded all the runs and all but one of the nine hits credited to the Bisons in the six innings he toiled.

Rookie On Mound

Control brought Mickey Roscoe, Buffalo hurler, the victory. He pitched the first five innings and blanked the Tigers with five hits. Jim Trexler, a southpaw who replaced him, gave up four hits and the lone Detroit run.

A spectacular one-handed catch by Mayo of Tucker Stainback's drive to deep center in the eighth inning kept the Tigers in check. Two were on base and two were out when Stainback chased Smith far back to make a leaping catch.

Buffalo scored a run in the third when Roscoe opened with a single and later scored on another by Jim Levy. The Bisons clinched the game in the fourth on a double by Joe Martin and a single by Hank Bunoski.

Tigers Tally

Detroit's run came in the sixth when Eric McNair walked and Stainback, who got three hits, tripled. Greenberg had a perfect day with two singles in two trips to the plate.

Fireman Alton Benton, who worked the last three innings for the Tigers, allowed only one hit.

Lakeland, Fla., April 2, (AP)—Southpaw Tom Seats, purchased in 1939 from Sacramento, was sold outright today by the Detroit Tigers to San Francisco of the Pacific Coast league. The sale price was not disclosed. Seats won two games and lost two for the Tigers last year and had an earned run average of 4.66.

Short Shots on Sports

By Milton Plumb

Everything points toward a busy summer of sports in this section of the U. P.

Several baseball leagues will swing into action in May. Meetings of players and fans will be called soon for the purpose of getting the softball programs rolling in the various cities. Inter-city adult golf meets, high school golf and tennis competition—and the special golf attraction the sports desk of the Press plans on sponsoring—will have their place on the program.

Fans in cities of this area are being treated to amateur boxing programs put on by WPA. The city ping pong competition is approaching the finals. Bud Stade and his fellow bowlers are industriously shellacking the pins. High school track competition will bring several important meets to Escanaba. Everyone not given to those sports is discussing fishing . . . And we accept the courteous invitation of the church dartball league to attend its annual banquet. Thanx.

In Kansas City the national cage rules committee ruled favorably upon a proposal that substitutions be allowed after a basket is scored—in addition to after fouls, held-balls and out-of-bounds balls and during timeouts . . . We understand that most high school coaches are in favor of the current rule changes approving fan-shaped backboards and a moulded basketball . . . But coaches generally are torn between two types of basketball—the "racehorse" system and the slow deliberate style involving intricate setup plays.

Some of the Michigan high school cage teams during the season just past played more than 30 games—before entering the various tournaments. Most college coaches, and many high school mentors, too, will tell you that 20 games for boys of high school age constitutes a full schedule, from the standpoint of health and studies of the boys . . . Marquette University likely will lose Bob Salek, its big sophomore tackle from Indiana, in the summer draft . . . Marquette's football schedule for next season calls for games with Wisconsin, Michigan State, Detroit and Oklahoma on the road; Kansas, Mississippi, Duquesne, New Mexico and Iowa State in Milwaukee.

Here's what the new baseball headgear, protection against the "bean ball," is like: The new cap has pockets in the lining into which protective sheets of "plastecele cellulose acetate plastic" may be slipped. The plastic is light enough to distribute shock from a blow on the cranium but is light in weight and molded to fit the head. Joe Medwick and Peewee Reese of the Dodgers, both beaned last year, are wearing the caps. The new caps are duPont products . . . Willie Hoppe, the grand old man of tournament billiards, will give exhibitions in Milwaukee April 14; wish someone would book him for a local appearance . . . Paul Runyan ,twice the PGA champion, was injured in an auto accident in South Carolina Monday and may be lost to the masters golf meet in Augusta this week . . . UP men's teams gave the All-American Red Heads, women's outfit, basketball drubbings last week, but the Reds defeated a Clintonville, Wis., men's team this week . . . Soldiers in southern camps likely will be admitted to most professional baseball games in that section for two bits a throw.

The national AAU boxing finals are being held in Boston this week, the national table tennis matches in N. Y. . . . Eddie Brietz, sports columnists, says some Chicago Cubs "are a bit piqued because the midnight curfew doesn't apply to Dizzy Dean". . . We were surprised to learn that three of the Escanaba high coaches hold their masters degrees. That speaks highly of the Eskymo's mentors . . . It's reported that Ford Thurston, who coached the fine Felch high cagers this year, will not return to his post next season—because of teacher's certificate troubles.

TIGERS REBUILD A FARM SYSTEM

Jack Zeller Has Detroit 'Chain Gang' Operating Smoothly Again

BY WATSON N. SPOELSTRA

Lakeland, Fla., April 1 (AP)—The minor league farm system of the Detroit Tigers, pulled asunder by Baseball Commissioner K. M. Landis' liberation in 1940 of 91 young players, again is prospering under the guiding hand of general manager Jack Zeller.

Virtually starting from scratch after the Landis edict, Zeller has quietly rebuilt the farm organization that is to develop future Tigers signed for professional baseball by Detroit's staff of ten full-time scouts.

Beaomont Cornerstone

As in previoos years, the Tiger farm cornerstone is laid at Beaumont of the Texas league where most of the Detroit stars of recent years have been developed for major league and world series participation. Detroit has had unusual success with Beaumont which competes in a class A-1 league.

When the Michigan State league took shape last season, Detroit acquired ownership of the Muskegon franchise for young players in class C competition. To bridge the gap between Muskegon and Beaumont, the Tigers this year purchased the Winston-Salem club of the class B Piedmont league.

Buffalo Is Affiliate

In addition to the three clubs owned outright, Detroit has a working agreement with Buffalo of the class AA International league and this spring brought up four Buffalo pitchers and one outfielder to the training camp here.

The Tigers soon will close with San Francisco of the class AA Pacific Coast league a working agreement in which two players will be sent there on option. In return, Detroit will receive sole right to select the cream of the San Francisco crop for purchase.

Ex-Major Leaguers Manage Coast Teams

San Francisco, (UP)—A former major league player will be at the helm of each of the eight clubs of the Pacific Coast league when that circuit opens play April 5.

SAME OLD AL

Pasadena, Calif. — Influenza flattened 10 White Sox here for training, so they called in a nurse. She told Al Schacht that the ailing players must take pills regularly.

"You said it, lady," the Chicago trainer assured the nurse. "I'm a great believer in PUNCTUATION."

THE TIGER RAG

Lakeland, Fla.—Bucky Walters of the Cincinnati Reds hove into the Detroit training camp with an automobile horn to delight the most ardent Tiger fan. It plays "The Tiger Rag."

DISTRICT MEET SCHEDULED HERE

This City Will Be Center of Competition for High Schools

Escanaba will be the scene of two interscholastic track meets this summer—the district meet, May 17, and, as always, the annual U. P. relays, May 30.

The high school athletic board for the upper peninsula, governing body on athletics, in session at Ironwood, awarded the district track meets to Escanaba, Ironwood, Houghton and Marquette. The winners in the districts will compete in the U. P. finals at Houghton, May 24.

Complete Slate

The annual invitational meet at Manistique, May 10.

The district meet at Escanaba, May 17.

The finals for the upper peninsula at Houghton, May 24.

The annual Memorial Day Relays at Escanaba, May 30.

The U. P. high school board voted to ask the state board to seat two additional members, representing the newly-designated Class E schools.

Seventy At Practice

Approximately 70 candidates for posts on the Escanaba high school track team, annually a big factor in the U. P. championships, went through conditioning runs under supervision of Henry Wylie, coach of the distance men, on a large vacant lot west of the school yesterday.

Veterans on hand for the Eskymo cinderburners this year include Captain Bob Craig, George Shomin, Don Pfotenhauer, Phil Stein, Bob Dufresne, "Stud" Peterson, Clarence Grabowski, and Bob Stephens. Cross-country performers of last fall, some of whom were regulars on the spring track squad last year, are well represented by Charles Sherlock, Jim Burdick, Jim Farrell, Ernie Erickson, Allen Kidd and Ralph DeGrand.

Minor Sports Meets

The Class B high school tennis meet for the U. P. will be held at Marquette, with Crystal Falls entertaining the tennis teams for Classes C and D. The high school golf meet for the peninsula will be held at Marquette.

The U. P. athletic board discussed the point system now used in Michigan to decide overtime games after the first extra period. However, no action can be taken until the fall meeting, Chairman Foss Elwyn of Sault Ste. Marie said, expressing doubt that the system would be changed since it was unanimously adopted in the U. P. last year.

COACHES TO MEET

Iron River, April 2—A dinner and meeting of the Menominee Range High School Athletic association will be held here Tuesday night, April 8.

Coaches, principals and superintendents of the member schools—Kingsford, Iron Mountain, Norway, Crystal Falls, Stambaugh and Iron River—will attend that session.

Hunters to Inspect Michigan Deeryards

Lansing, March 27—Mio, Atlanta, Grayling and possibly West Branch or St. Helen have been selected as starting points for deeryard inspection trips to be conducted by conservation department game men on two weekends in April.

Southern Michigan sportsmen wishing to observe personally the condition of forage supplies in swamps where the deer have wintered, and possibly see for themselves some deer dead of starvation, will gather at the towns listed, on April 6 and April 20, weather permitting. April 27 a tour may be conducted to the yards on Drummond Island.

Conducted tours of the deeryards are held each spring to acquaint sportsmen with conditions in the deer range at other times than the hunting season. Last year hundreds of hunters joined the tours held on weekends when snow was melting from the deer country.

Sportsmen are advised to contact the game division of the conservation department in Lansing before planning a trip, to be certain of dates and starting points. Those attending are advised to carry lunches and wear warm clothing and waterproof foot gear, since they may have to walk a mile or more from their automobiles.

STARS WELCOME LEAHY

Notre Dame—Frank Carideo, Larry (Moon) Mullins, Marty Brill, Tom Conley, Dick Donoghue and other star players under Knute Rockne and former teammates of Frank Leahy, will return to N. D. June 1 to welcome Leahy into his new post, head football coach for the Irish.

19-Year Old Pitcher Is Roundly Praised By Boss Of Tigers

Lakeland, Fla., April 2 (AP)—Spring baseball performances are deceiving, but Manager Del Baker of the Detroit Tigers believes that in 19 year old Chester Kehn the Brooklyn Dodgers have an outstanding young pitching prospect.

Kehn, assigned to the Montreal farm of the Dodgers, came up on loan to the Brooklyn club to aid in a five-game training camp series with the Tigers. In five innings of relief pitching Kehn yielded no runs on three scattered hits and struck out eight, getting Rudy York twice and Hank Greenberg once.

Kehn, who finished for Brooklyn in the series final, was no stranger to Harold Newhouser, who started on the mound for Detrot. Three years ago they hooked up in a pair of pitching duels for the National American Legion junior championship.

Newhouser, hurling for Detroit's Legian entry, shut out San Diego, Calif., in the first game of the title series and Kehn was the losing pitcher. In the third and deciding game Kehn bested Newhouser 2 to 1.

Loss Of Trainer To Hurt Tigers' Hopes

Ne wYork, (UP)—Go no further than the 10 magic fingers of trainer Denny Carroll for ample reason why the Detroit Tigers may not repeat and win the American league pennant for 1941.

Baseball men throughout both major leagues have made a winter hobby of second-guessing the Detroiters into the second division for almost every reason in the book but Carroll's retirement last month may furnish the necessary impetus to send the Tigers tobogganing.

It will always be one of baseball's mysteries how the Tigers' infield of Higgins, Bartell, Gehringer and York, the oldest in the major leagues, ever held together long enough to enable the club to win the flag last season.

With Only Two Clubs

But Carroll hasn't talked much during his 33 years as a muscle massager. He's been with only two clubs, but has worked under 14 managers. Starting with the San Francisco Seals in 1914, he remained until 1931 when the club was forced to let him go. He was footloose for only a few months before the Tigers engaged him in the spring of 1932.

STAR GRIDDER TO WED

Clinton, N. Y. (UP)—Forest Evashevski, whose 200 pounds ran interference for All-American Tom Harmon for Michigan, will marry Miss Ruth Brown, daughter of U. S. Senator Brown of Michigan, and settle down here to coach at little Hamilton college.

'Flying Bietilas' Are Still Setting Records

Ishpeming, Mich. (AP) — Jacob "Pa" Bietila has seen his six sons capture almost every honor available in the skiing world. From Anselm, now retired, to Ralph, youngest of the lot but likely to become one of the greatest, the sports world has thrilled season after season to the name and skill of the "flying Bietilas".

Starting work as a boy of 10, "Pa" Bietila himself has done little skiing. He came to America from Finland at 17 and has made his home in Ishpeming for 40 years, except for two years spent farming in North Dakota. He's employed in one of Ishpeming's mines.

"Pa" Bietila remembers when his eldest son won his first tournament. Returning from work one afternoon he met Anselm, who excitedly told him he had won the annual tournament on Brasswire hill—scene of Ishpeming Ski Club competition years ago—and in addition had made the longest standing jump. Mr. and Mrs. Bietila bought Anselm a suit of clothes with the prize he had won.

Leonard, the second son, entered competition soon after and during the ensuing years won his share of prizes. He's still active.

Walter, third of the air-minded brothers, reached the greatest heights the sextet has scaled when he was chosen a member of the 1936 Olympic team which competed in Germany. Now competing under the colors of the Madison (Wis.) Hoofers Club, Walter has won honor after honor. His latest feat was a victory over the great Alf Engen at Iron Mountain, Mich., this season.

Mr. Bietila has known great sorrow, too, but in his sadness learned how highly the sports world esteemed Paul Bietila—greatest of them all and named America's greatest native-born ski rider. Injured at St. Paul, Minn., Paul developed pneumonia and succumbed after a weeks-long gallant fight. Ski associations throughout the country sent messages of condolence, midwest ski clubs sent delegations to his funeral and ski lovers from the entire upper peninsula attended the rites.

Paul left a record that this community will never forget. "Stealing" a ride during a tournament on Ishpeming's famed Suicide hill when less than 10 years old, Paul rose to prominence in 1931 at the age of 12 when he leaped 185 feet to set a new world's record for boys. He won tournament after tournament before meeting an untimely death eight years later.

For a long time Roy was the "baby" of the "Flying Bietila", but the youngest,Ralph, became of skiing age and today threatens to surpass the heights reached by his older brothers—even Paul.

Ralph climaxed the greatest season's performance ever registered by a class C rider when he jumped 225 feet last Feb. 23 on Suicide hill for the longest standing jump ever made in America by boys under 17 years of age. He leaped 239 feet on his first try that afternoon, but fell. A brother, Roy, broke the hill record later that day with a 236-foot jump, and another of the brothers, Walter, tried to surpass it but fell on another 236-foot leap.

Money Linksmen Will Get New Conduct Code

BY EARL HILLIGAN

Chicago, April 2 (AP)—As a direct result of last week's flareup between Johnny Bulla and Ralph Guldahl, the tournament Bureau of the Professional Golfers Association this week-end will draw up a code of conduct for all participants in future P. G. A. tournaments.

Announcement of this action was made today by the P. G. A. president, Tom Walash, who said the step was taken "in the hope that the good work which the P. G. A. has done in fostering relationships between players in its tournaments might not be hampered by a few participants who might not understand the rules."

Bulla Balked

Bulla, husky Chicagoan who never has been granted a P. G. A. membership and who has been in several mixups in recent years, dropped out of the "Land of the Sky" open at Asheville, N. C., after playing only nine holes with the complaint that Guldahl's slow play was making him mad enough to fight. Guldahl, twice winner of the national open, retorted he would never forgive Bulla for his action and remarks.

Assembles Data

Fred Corcoran, P. G. A. tournament bureau manager, immediately started assembling information on the exchange, and his notes will be considered by the tournament committee at its meeting within the next few days, during the playing of the Masters tournament at Augusta, Ga.

Walsh did not say whether the code would go so far as to define what playing partners could say to one another or how much time they could take lining up putts.

FOOTBALL PROS TO STUDY RULES

Notre Dame Star Signs for 1941 Play With Detroit Eleven

Chicago, April 2, (AP)—The national Football league, continuing its efforts to make the professional game's rules as equitable as possible, will open its annual meeting tomorrow with its rules committee considering several changes.

The session, a prelude to Friday's scheduled executive meeting in which Elmer Layden is slated for formal induction as the circuit's first commissioner, will consider several recommendations dealing with penalties.

Adoption of the 1941 playing schedule is an important part of the agenda, while a decision is expected on retention of President Carl Storck or abolition of the office.

Lions Sign Piepul

The first development as owners checked in tonight was an announcement that Milt Piepul, 1940 Notre Dame football captain and regarded as one of its greatest fullbacks, had signed with the Detroit Lions.

Graham Smith, Detroit business manager, said Peipul had been released from a coaching contract with Chicago's De La Salle high school to accept the Lion's offer.

BEES WIN SLUGFEST

Houston, Tex., April 2, (AP)—In the wildest contest yet of the 12-game series, the Boston Bees walloped the St. Louis Browns 12 to 5 here today, evening the count at 6-all. It was a close battle only until the fifth inning when John Niggeling, who started on the mound for the Browns, lost everything and the Bees chased over four runs to wipe out a 2-run deficit.

Trout Lake Will Hold Wildflower Festival May 29

Trout, Lake, Mich.—Wild flowers of Michigan will be honor guests at Trout Lake, in the Upper Peninsula, during the first annual "Wild Flower Festival" to be held May 29 to June 1 this spring. The only similar event takes place in California, and it is expected that the Trout Lake Festival will rank high among the attractions for nature-lovers in the Middle West. The Trout Lake Civic Club is sponsoring the event, with the conservation department cooperating.

The program itself is of special interest, and features the observation of plants and flowers where they grow, whether on hillsides or in woods and marshes. Noted naturalists will conduct the field trips, and among them are included Margaret Drake Elliott of Muskegon, Mrs. A. B. Roberts of Marquette, Dr. Bessie B. Kanouse of the University of Michigan, Edward Dreier of Grand Rapids, and Verne Fuller of Muskegon. C. A. Paquin and Richard Gearhart of the state conservation department will also be on the program. The serving of out-door meals will be another feature on the program.

On the Saturday night of the festival, a community square-dance will be the attraction, together with colored movies and slides of wild flowers in their native habitats. This community affair will draw square dancers from miles around, as a prize is to be given to the best couple—the judges to be announced later. Phil DeGraff, president of the Trout Lake Civic Club, and a director of the Upper Peninsula Development Bureau, has been appointed festival director. "Camping and trailer facilities as well as cabins and hotels, will be available to those desiring them," says DeGraff. Complete information regarding the "Wild Flower Festival" may be obtained, together with information regarding accommodations, by writing the Trout Lake Civic Club at Trout Lake.

Bright Hues Still With The Ladies

BY AMY PORTER
AP Fashion Editor

The struggle these tailors make to convert men to wearing clothes of brighter hue!

They accuse men of "frightened conservatism." They scold, storm, cajole, and try to enlist the fighting aid of wives.

Right there's the weak point in the tailors' campaign—the wives.

Wives don't want their men to outshine them. They like a husband to be "a blue-black shadow following in the wake of a pretty woman" (the pretty woman being the wife). They've always resented nature's underhanded way of decking out the male bird with finer plumage than the female.

Poor Mrs. Pepys!

Wives would be furious if the good old days returned, when men took the spotlight with lace ruffles and yellow satin breeches. Samuel Pepys' wife must have been pretty exasperated with a husband so vain he could write:

"This morning came home my fine camlet cloak with gold buttons, and a silk suit, which cost me much money, and I pray God to make me able to pay for it."

No, let men keep to the background.

But, at least, wives would like them to be a well-tailored background. Neat but not gaudy.

Dress-Alikes

A number of inoffensive improvements for masculine wardrobes were suggested by the Merchant Tailors and Designers Association of America at their St. Louis show.

The tailors are sponsoring dress-alikes for men and women, very tailored, and that's all right for the fun of it, so long as the woman keeps an edge on the man with a brighter scarf and a fancier shirt.

They also advocate, in business suits, "tighter trousers, longer coats, higher vests, straighter silhoutte." And "bright colors," by which they mean muted greens and blues and the new diamond browns, arranged in radical stripe formation.

Masculine jewelry is growing in popularity, the tailors insist, referring to colored shirt studs and rings. What woman would object to her husband having a brown diamond ring so long as she got the white diamonds?

Checks and plaids of the newest sport jackets have a bit more boldness than in the past years, but a woman still can defend herself by wearing a knock-out all-red costume herself. And new snap brim hats for spring are done in two tones of tan instead of one.

Humane Summer Garb

Wives ought to consent to the new hot weather costumes for men, for humane reasons. These are made of light weight porous fabrics with porosity extending even to belts, braces, ties and shoes.

Most wives won't have to decide whether the man of her choice shall be permitted to wear a "summer dinner jacket in orange herringbone, lined with orange satin, to be worn with green dinner trousers, green grosgrain cummerbund, tie, studs, flower." Most men won't argue the point at all.
